These remarks have encouraged us to depart from the precedent of the Sale of Goods Bill, where the English Act was modified in a few particulars only, and to use the Partnership Act, 1890, with some degree of freedom. Nevertheless, the Bill does not alter in any substantial way the English law of partnership or the Indian law of partnership, which is based thereon. The main principles are the same, and likewise all important details. The deviations in principle it does show are on minor points, and have been introduced in order to adapt the law to Indian conditions or to supplement it in places where it is incomplete, or are supported by the views of authoritative commentators. Further, the wording of clearly defined principles in the Partnership Act, 1890, has been freely adopted. Admittedly, any change in the wording of the English Act may have the disadvantage of making useful English decisions difficult to apply to Indian cases, but it is anticipated that the practical identity in substance of the two Acts and the similarity in wording of important provisions will avoid this undesirable result and will attract to difficult cases in India the benefits of English judicial experience.

7. The main source of the difference between the Bill and the Partnership Act, 1890, lies in the greater emphasis given in the Bill to the personality of a firm. On this subject Lindley remarks on page 4:—

"One feature peculiar to the English law of partnership, and distinguishing it from the laws of other European countries and of Scotland, was the persistency with which the firm, as distinguished from the partners composing it, was ignored both at law and in equity. As no one can owe money to himself, it was held that no debt could exist between any member of a firm and the firm itself; and although Courts of Equity, in winding up the concerns of a firm, treated the firm as the debtor or creditor of its members as the case might be, yet this was only for purposes of book-keeping, and in order to arrive at the net balance to be paid to or by each of the partners on the ultimate settlement of their accounts. This non-recognition of the firm was a defect in the law of partnership; and it is to be regretted that the Partnership Act did not go further than it did in the direction of assimilating the English law to the Scotch. Had it done so, the difficulties of suing and being sued and of dealing with partners abroad, would have been greatly diminished."

8. The Bill goes some way to meet Lindley's criticism but it adheres strictly to the old established English and Indian view that a firm is not a legal person. The emphasis above referred to arises from two causes, the first of which is a mere matter of wording. The English Act defines the word "partnership" as being "the relation which subsists between persons carrying on a business in common with a view to profit," and, as regards a "firm" it says that "persons who have entered into partnership with one another are for the purposes of this Act called collectively a firm." It appears that the framers of the English Act wished throughout to lay stress on the abstract relation of partnership and to avoid giving colour to the view that the firm has any degree of personality, for in the Act the term "partnership" is frequently used in the sense of "firm," and also as an adjective in the sense of "belonging to a firm" or "relating to a firm." The use of the defined word "firm" seems almost to be avoided. The Bill confines the word "partnership" to its legitimate defined meaning of the relation which exists between partners, and wherever the partners themselves are referred to collectively it uses the word "firm." Hence the word "firm" occurs very frequently in the Bill, whereas the word "partnership" occurs rarely, and thereby the Bill, as compared with the English Act, emphasises the concrete thing, the firm, as against the abstract relation, the partnership.

9. The second cause of the emphasis is very largely a matter of arrangement. The strict view of the existing law, placing full stress upon the abstract relation of partnership, is that "on any change amongst the persons comprising a partnership there is in fact a new partnership" (Lindley, page 166). This, however, is not the practical or commercial view of a firm, whereunder a firm has a sufficient degree of personality and of continuity to justify such common-places as advertisements which claim that a firm has been established for over a century. Even the English Law as expressed in the Partnership Act, 1890, has been forced to depart from the strict legal view of the firm, for it speaks of changes in a firm, or persons dealing with a firm after a change in its constitution, of debts due from the firm to a partner, and uses other phrases conceding some degree of personality to the firm, and of continuity in its existence in spite of internal changes. The Bill goes in this direction to the limits which are already implied in the English Act; and it collects together in a separate Chapter, entitled "Incoming and outgoing partners" all provisions which directly bear upon the introduction, retirement, expulsion, insolvency and death of partners in those cases where the business of the firm is carried on without a dissolution of partnership. The result is that, apart from the preliminary Chapter and the Chapter on "The nature of partnership," the Bill has three Chapters which deal with the working firm, namely,—

Chapter III.—Relations of partners to one another,
Chapter IV.—Relations of partners to third parties,
Chapter V.—Incoming and Outgoing Partners,

and one Chapter relating to the extinction of a firm, namely,—

Chapter VI.—Dissolution of a firm.

10. We hope that this re-arrangement of the Partnership Act, 1890, will be of practical convenience to lawyers and business men in that very numerous class of cases where there is a change in the constitution of a firm without a dissolution. The new Chapter V contains a number of concise propositions setting out the legal consequences flowing from changes in the personnel of a firm when there is no dissolution, which are embodied in various sections of the English Act scattered throughout all three of its parts. The re-arrangements has also the advantage of confining Chapter VI strictly to provisions relating to the dissolution of a firm and its legal consequences. But we must emphasise again that in so re-arranging the English Act we have not departed from any of its outstanding conceptions or principles.

11. One of us would prefer to go much further and would propose that, for the whole of Chapter II and clauses (a) and (b) of clause 2, the following should be substituted:—

"4. (1) A 'firm' is an association of persons who have joined together for the purpose of conducting some kind of lawful trade, profession, calling or enterprise, as a business venture, with the object of obtaining profit by dealing with third parties, each of the members of the association being in the position of a principal in all such dealings.

(2) The members of a firm are called 'partners'; their mutual relationship is called 'partnership'; the name under which the business is carried on is called the 'firm name'; and an 'act of the firm' is an act or omission in which all the partners are deemed to take part.

5. Every firm shall be deemed to be constituted by a contract between the partners whereby they agree that their partnership shall be governed by the Articles of Partnership stated in the schedule:

Provided that the partners may, at any time, expressely or impliedly agree to terms of partnership to the contrary of, or in addition to, such Articles."

According to this scheme, the Articles of Partnership in the Schedule would include all provisions of the Bill which relate to such of the mutual rights and duties of partners as are subject to contract between the partners. This scheme would relegate practically the whole of Chapter III and portions of Chapters IV, V and VI to the Schedule. The rest of us, however, consider that this scheme would be too sweeping an innovation, and we prefer to have the whole of the law set out and logically arranged in the statute itself.

12. In addition to the pure law of partnership the Bill contains an important new Chapter on the registration of firms—Chapter VII. The history of the proposals for some measure of this kind in India goes as far back as 1867, when the Bombay Chamber of Commerce first made the suggestion that legislation should be undertaken for the compulsory registration of firms. The step was then deemed to be impracticable, but ever since at frequent intervals various mercantile bodies, sometimes supported by Local Governments, have pressed for some such legislation in the interests of the trading public. The movement was strengthened by the passing of the Registration of Business Names Act, 1916 (5 and 6 George V c. 58), which furnished a useful precedent. This Act inter alia makes the registration of all firms compulsory, attaches a penalty to failure to register, and renders persons who are in default incapable of bringing a suit to enforce their claims as partners, whether against their co-partners or against third parties. In 1918 the Industrial Commission recommended a system of compulsory registration, and in 1925 the Civil Justice Committee made specific recommendations somewhat on the lines of the Registration of Business Names Act, 1916, but excepting firms with a capital below Rs. 500. In 1920 the legislature of Burma passed the Burma Registration of Business Names Act, 1920, which applied the principle of compulsory registration to certain towns in Burma.

13. All the proposals made at various times were considered by the Government of India, but, owing either to lack of unanimity among the proposers or to difficulties in the proposals themselves, no conclusions were come to which could form the basis of a Bill which held any promise of a successful passage through the Indian legislature. These difficulties related to—

(1) Hindu undivided families,

(2) short-lived partnerships, and

(3) firms in a small way of business, and a short discussion of these will disclose the reasons why nothing so far has been done, and will help to explain the present proposals.

14. A Hindu undivided family may carry on a family business exclusively for its own benefit, or it may carry on a business with one or more outsiders as partners with the family. To require that each member of such a family should have his name registered in a register of firms has all along been deemed to be an impracticable step. Every male child born would have to be registered, and every death or partition that occurred would involve changes in the register. It has been recognised that such a proposal would be resented by the Hindu community and probably would not be effective. However, this difficulty may be avoided, as was pointed out by the present Law Member in his evidence before the Industrial Commission in 1918. A Hindu undivided family carrying on a family business may have many of the characteristics of a firm, but it is not a firm. Partnership arises only from contract and is not created by status or obtained by birth. The law of partnership has no application to these families, whose internal relations and liabilities for the acts of members are governed entirely by the Hindu law. Even in the case where a trading family enters into partnership with outsiders no special provision for the registration of its members is needed. As partnership arises only from contract, only that member who makes the contract of partnership with outsiders can be considered to be a partner. He may or he may not represent the whole family, and only his interest or the whole joint family property may be liable for the debts of the firm; but these are questions of fact mainly, or, where they are mixed questions of fact and law, the law is not that of partnership but is the Hindu law. If the partner member does represent the family and if his share of the profits of the firm goes into the family stock, then the whole of the joint family property will be liable for the debts of the firm. But if the partner member is trading on his own responsibility and keeps the profits to himself then the creditors of the firm cannot realise their claims against the firm from the joint family property, beyond the extent of the interest of the partner member. It will be seen that the principles of law involved are principles of the Hindu law, and that they are the same principles which are applied to all dealings by the manager or representative of the joint family.

15. No attempt to smooth the path of litigation against a Hindu undivided family has been made, for example, in the recent Transfer of Property (Amendment) Act, 1929, or Sale of Goods Act, 1930, though the difficulties exist on a much greater scale in connection with mortgages and sales by Hindu families generally than in connection with the restricted class of the mercantile transactions of Hindu trading families. It is submitted that the attempt need not be made now, for the limited purpose of partnership, to the prejudice of the passing of an otherwise useful measure.

16. The difficulties connected with short-lived partnerships and with firms in a small way of business may be considered together. It has been pointed out repeatedly with much force that to require small or ephemeral joint ventures to be registered would produce little public benefit and would act as a clog on petty enterprise; and such ventures are so numerous that any small benefit to be derived from registration would be counterbalanced by the clerical labour involved. Hence, there have been proposals, like that of the Civil Justice Committee, that firms with less than a certain capital should be exempt, or that the disability to sue arising from non-registration should apply only to suits above a certain value; but none of these proposals have survived examination. The capital of a firm may be an elusive quantity and it is frequently a fluctuating quantity; and to use the valuation of a suit in order to determine whether the suit lies or not is likely to lead to improper devices and to perjury. The Bill seeks to overcome this class of difficulty by making registration optional, and by creating inducements to register which will only bear upon firms in a substantial and fairly permanent way of business.

17. The outlines of the scheme are briefly as follows. The English precedent in so far as it makes registration compulsory and imposes a penalty for non-registration has not been followed, as it is considered that this step would be too drastic for a beginning in India, and would introduce all the difficulties connected with small and ephemeral undertakings. Instead, it is proposed that registration should lie entirely within the discretion of the firm or partner concerned; but, following the English precedent, any firm which is not registered will be unable to enforce its claims against third parties in the civil courts; and any partner who is not registered will be unable to enforce his claims either against third parties or against his fellow partners. One exception to this disability is made—any unregistered partner in any firm, registered or unregistered, may sue for dissolution of the firm. This exception is made on the principle that registration is designed primarily to protect third parties, and the absence of registration need not prevent the disappearance of an unregistered or imperfectly registered firm. Under this scheme a small firm, or a firm created for a single venture, not meeting with difficulty in getting payment, need never register; and even a firm with a large business need not register until it is faced with litigation. Registration may then be effected at any time before the suit is instituted. The rights of third parties to sue the firm or any partner are left intact.

18. Once registration has been effected the statements recorded in the register regarding the constitution of the firm will be conclusive proof of the facts therein contained against the partners making them, and no partner whose name is on the register will be permitted to deny that he is a partner,—with certain natural and proper exceptions which will be indicated later. This should afford a strong protection to persons dealing with firms against false denials of partnership and the evasion of liability by the substantial members of a firm.

19. The framing of inducements to register changes in a firm has been difficult, but the devices proposed in the Bill are put forward as being as strong as may be created, in the absence of a penal sanction and without altering any of the established principles of partnership law. As regards a partner newly introduced into the firm, if he fails to register he will incur a grave risk of being unable to claim his dues from his partners, and will have to rely solely on their good faith or sue for dissolution. On the other hand, the third party who deals with a firm and knows that a new partner has been introduced can either make registration of the new partner a condition for further dealings, or content himself with the certain security of the other partners and the chance of proving by other evidence the partnership of the new but unregistered partner. A third party who deals with a firm without knowing of the addition of a new partner counts on the credit of the old partners only, and will not be prejudiced by the failure of the new partner to register.

20. As regards outgoing partners the Bill provides that the estate of a deceased partner or of an insolvent partner is in no case liable for the acts of the firm after his death or insolvency. This rule is well established and is hard and fast. Nothing in the way of registration of the death or insolvency of a partner, therefore, can improve the position of third parties, and no inducement need be offered, beyond the desire which will actuate most firms to keep their entry in the register up to date, for the information and benefit of intending customers. These are the exceptions mentioned above, where the existence of a name on the register may not establish the partnership of the person named.

21. As regards retired or expelled partners, who are legally on the same footing, there will be strong inducement to have the changes noted in the register. The law provides that a retired or an expelled partner continues to be liable for the acts of the firm, and the firm continues to be liable for any act of theirs purporting to be done on behalf of the firm, until public notice is given of the retirement or expulsion. Clause 71 of the Bill provides that this public notice can be given as regards retirement and expulsion only by notice to the Registrar, which will be recorded in the register. Hence, when a partner retires or is expelled, it will be in his own interest and also in the interest of the remaining partners to give immediate notice of the change to the Registrar.

22. Similar considerations apply when a firm is dissolved. All the partners will still be liable for the acts of any of them which would have bound the firm if done before its dissolution until public notice is given. Here again, it will be in the interest of all the partners that early notice should be given, and this can only be done by notice to the Registrar.

23. To sum up, it is anticipated that once a firm has been registered the register of firms will continue to contain a complete and up to date list of all partners who will be liable for the debts of the firm to persons who propose to deal with the firm.

24. One more point regarding the registration of firms calls for mention. It is proposed that the chapter, in so far as it provides machinery for registration, amendment of the register, grant of copies and so forth, should come into force along with the rest of the Bill, so that firms may apply for registration at once. The clause regarding the conclusive nature of the statements recorded in the register will come into force at the same time. However, it would obviously be unjust to make all unregistered firms and partners incapable of suing until they have had a reasonable opportunity to register; and it is proposed that they should be allowed one year, by enacting that the clause rendering them incapable of suing shall not come into force until one year after the commencement of the rest of the Act.

25. It has already been indicated that the Bill contains other provisions which are not contained in the Partnership Act, 1890. These are considered in detail in the Notes on Clauses, but one set of provisions is important enough to justify its mention in this Report. In the Introduction to Lindley page 8 it is said, under the marginal head "Goodwill":

"One matter of great practical importance and of some difficulty is unfortunately not dealt with, i.e., the goodwill of a dissolved firm and the extent to which, and the persons by whom, the use of its name may be continued. Sir Frederick Pollock's Bill dealt with these points; as did also the Bill which passed the House of Commons in 1889, and the Bill which was brought into the House of Lords in 1890. But owing, it is believed, to differences of opinion, and to the difficulty of arriving at a conclusion which would be acceptable to both Houses of Parliament, the clauses relating to these subjects were struck out. The law upon them must therefore be extracted from judicial decisions and the doubts and difficulties which beset questions arising on these subjects must remain for future judicial or legislative solution."

Perhaps a reason for the differences of opinion on the clauses relating to goodwill was that they were framed generally, and not with application to the goodwill of firms only. Sir Frederick Pollock himself says in his Digest of the Law of Partnership (12th Edn., pages 121-22):

"The Act does not make any express provision for disposing of the goodwill on the dissolution of a firm. Probably this is due to the consideration that the rules of law relating to goodwill are not confined to cases where a business has been carried on in partnership, and therefore do not belong to the law of partnership in any exact sense. Nevertheless, the rules have been settled chiefly by decisions in partnership cases, and the question of goodwill is one of those which ought always to be considered and provided for in the formation of a partnership, and constantly has to be considered on its dissolution, whether provided for or not."

It is considered that the views of these two eminent writers should be followed, and accordingly provision is made in the Bill for the disposal of the goodwill of a firm. Provisions governing the sale of goodwill generally would be out of place, but they are of sufficient importance in their bearing on firms to justify their inclusion in a restricted form. There is perhaps no statute on the Indian Statute Book where general provisions could find a logical place, but it is hoped that the provisions now proposed for the goodwill of firms will be found to contain principles which may be used as a general guide.

26. The Bill as settled by us is given in Appendix B, and detailed notes on the various clauses in Appendix C to this Report.

In conclusion, we desire to place on record our great sense of obligation to Mr. D. G. Mitchell, who took part in our deliberations and rendered us great assistance in drafting the clauses of the Bill and in preparing our Report; and also to Mr. A. deC. Williams who made arrangements for us and also took part in our deliberations until unfortunately he fell sick.

APPENDIX A.

RESOLUTION.

New Delhi, the 24th March, 1930.

No. 354-I./29-C. & G.—The Government of India have had under consideration the desirability of amending and bringing up to date the law relating to partnership. It is proposed that the changes should be embodied in a self-contained enactment which will replace that portion of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, which deals with this subject. A preliminary draft Bill has already been prepared which the Governor General in Council has decided to remit to a small committee of experts before it is introduced in the Indian Legislature. The previous examination of a highly technical piece of legislation of this character by a committee composed of lawyers of eminence will, he feels assured, command general approval. The committee will be constituted as follows:—

Chairman.

The Honourable Sir Brojendra Lal Mitter, KT., Bar.-at-Law, Law Member of the Council of His Excellency the Governor General.

Members.

Sir Dinshah Fardunji Mulla, KT., C.I.E., M.A., LL.B., Advocate, Bombay,
Mr. Alladi Krishnaswami Ayyar, Advocate-General, Madras, and Mr. Arthur Eggar, M.A., Bar.-at-Law, Government Advocate, Rangoon.

The committee will meet in Simla by the first week of May, 1930. The Government of India hope to introduce the Bill during the next session of the Indian Legislature.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the Resolution be forwarded to the Governments of Madras and Burma, the Home, Finance and Commerce Departments, Sir Dinshah Mulla, Mr. A. Krishnaswami Ayyar and Mr. A. Eggar for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

L. GRAHAM,
Secretary to the Government of India.

APPENDIX C.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

Clause 1.—As regards sub-clause (3), it has already been noticed in paragraph 24 of our Report that clause 68 of the Bill is not to come into force until one year after the rest of the Bill, in order to give firms a reasonable chance to register before that clause begins to operate against them.

Clause 2.—The definitions of "act of a firm" and of "third party" are intended to economise words throughout the Bill. The definition of "business" is taken from the Partnership Act, 1890.

Clause 3, like clause 3 of the Sale of Goods Bill, will make the Indian Partnership Act a branch of the general law of contract. Sub-clause (f) of clause 2 has the same object.

CHAPTER II.—The nature of partnership.

Clause 4.—This clause contains the difficult definition of "partnership," and the simple ones of "partner," "firm" and "firm name." Lindley (pages 12 and 13) gives nineteen definitions of partnership in four languages. Those in French, German and Latin are consistent in defining partnership as a contract or agreement; but the definitions of the English and American writers show the confusion in the use of the term which has been carried into the English Act. The definitions given by the Indian Contract Act and by Pollock regard "partnership" as a relation between persons; the New York Civil Code speaks of it as an association between two or more persons for a certain purpose; Kent, Story and Watson see it as a contract between persons; Dixon regards it as a group of persons between whom a certain relation exists; and Rutherford's view may be any or all of the others. For a proposed scheme of statutory contract law, of which the present Bill is to form a part, to be administered by Courts of all grades of expereience, it is most desirable to have this confusion removed and to give to "firm" and "partnership" meanings which will be distinct from each other, and can be consistently used throughout the statute. Unfortunately, the confusion has already gone so far that this difficulty cannot be entirely avoided, for the word "partnership," which ought to have been restricted to its obvious meaning of a relationship, is, both in legal writings and in popular usage, employed sometimes to denote a group of persons. This difficulty, it is submitted, should be faced and the words restored to their proper meanings. Throughout the Bill, therefore, the word "partnership" is used in the defined sense of a relationship, and in no other. Where the partners are referred to collectively the word "firm" is invariably used.

The definition of " partnership" in the Indian Contract Act, section 239, was based upon Kent's definition. Pollock proposes an improvement upon the present Indian definition in order to meet the criticisms of Jessell, M. R. in Pooley v. Driver (5 Ch. D. 472), who points out that certain elements in Kent's definition are subsidiary and superfluous in a definition. The form adopted in the Bill is that of Pollock, with one small change only. Pollock's definition speaks of the business as being "carried on by all or any of them on behalf of all," whereas the definition proposed by us speaks of it as "carried on by all or any of them acting for all." The difference lies in the use of the phrase "acting for" instead of "on behalf of." The intention is to bring out more clearly the fundamental principle that the partners when carrying on the business of the firm are agents as well as principals. Further, the use of the words "on behalf of" seems to give some justification to the wrong view that a person who merely shares the profits of the business is a partner, for inasmuch as such a person derives benefit from the business it may be said to be carried on on his behalf.

It is claimed that the definition includes all the essential elements contained in all the definitions quoted by Lindley, the only exception being the element of the sharing of losses. This element may be regarded as consequential upon the sharing of profits, as a firm may be created in which losses are not contemplated or provided for by the sanguine partners. The Bill, therefore, does not seek to make agreement to share losses a test of the existence of partnership, but takes the course of treating the sharing of losses as a legal consequence arising out of the relation of partnership, which is established otherwise.

The definition of "partnership" contains three elements—

(1) there must be an agreement entered into by all the persons concerned;

(2) the agreement must be to share the profits of a business; and

(3) the business must be carried on by all or any of the persons concerned, acting for all.

All these elements must be present before a group of associates can be held to be partners. These three elements may appear to overlap, but they are nevertheless distinct. The first element relates to the voluntary contractual nature of partnership; the second gives the motive which leads to the formation of firms, i.e., the acquisition of gain; and the third shows that the persons of the group who conduct the business do so as agents for all the persons in the group, and are therefore liable to account to all.

Clause 5 is a comprehensive statement of the rule in the leading case on the nature of partnership Cox v. Hickman (8, H. L. C., 268) which has been followed in innumerable decisions since 1860, but has not been incorporated in the Partnership Act, 1890. The English decisions are remarkable in the insistence they show on the real relation between the parties in a disputed partnership and not merely on the expressed intention of the parties. A and B may in a written agreement have stated expressly that they are not partners, yet the Courts have held them to be partners; or they may have stated that they are partners and the Courts have held them not to be partners. The course taken by the Judges has been to examine all the incidents of the relation between the parties, as shown in written agreements, verbal agreements or mere conduct, to lay special stress on no particular fact and no particular legal element in partnership, but to take all the facts impartially into account and from them to deduce the real relation between the parties. The clause is intended to guide the Courts in India along these lines.

Clause 6 emphasises one of the elements in the definition, namely, that partnership is the result of a voluntary agreement. There is no similar provision in the English Act, but in view of the vast extent of non-contractual quasi-partnership relations in India, of which the Hindu trading family is the outstanding example, it is deemed expedient to insert this caluse in the Bill to prevent all possible doubt.

It will not be out of place here to mention that in the course of our discussions we have considered whether some provisions should be made for the rights and obligations of the members of a joint Hindu family in cases where the karta of a joint family enters into partnership with a stranger, acting for the joint family and employing the family assets. The decisions in India have uniformly held that in such a case the karta or the manager alone must be taken to be the partner and that the stranger is entitled and bound to treat only with the karta (41 Mad. 454; 43 All. 116). We think that since the Hindu Law permits a karta to enter into partnership in this way, the members of the family who are not parties to the contract should not be clothed with any rights against the stranger partners. It seems to us that to introduce provisions enabling the other members of the family to intervene in the affairs of the firm would introduce inextricable confusion into the partnership law and might paralyse trade and commercial dealings.

Clauses 7 and 8.—As mentioned above, the Partnership Act, 1890, gives no separate statement of the rule in Cox v. Hickman which has been embodied in clause 5 of the Bill in a highly generalised form. Instead, the English Act gives in section 2 a series of rules having the general tendency of the rule in Cox v. Hickman. Sub-section (3) of section 2 reproduces, along with section 3, what was known as Bovill's Act (28 and 29 Vict. c. 86) whose history is well known. Section 2 has been held by the Courts in many cases not to have superseded the rule in Cox v. Hickman which is still applied in disputed cases of partnership not covered by any of the rules in that section. Lindley remarks on page 4—

> "Bovill's Act, which regulated the liabilities of persons sharing profits, was repealed by section 48, but was in effect re-enacted by sections 2 and 3; but it would have been better to have omitted it and to have expressed more emphatically the principle laid down by the House of Lords in Cox v. Hickman and to have left that principle to be practically worked out by the Courts."

Clauses 7 and 8 of the Bill are a compromise between section 2 of the Partnership Act, 1890, and Lindley's view. As the rule in Cox v. Hickman has been given statutory expression in clause 5, it seems unnecessary to reproduce the elaborate, indirect, though only partial, expression of it in section 2 of the English Act; nevertheless, that section contains some useful propositions of law for the guidance of the Courts, which may fairly be treated as rules subsidiary to and explanatory of the central rule contained in clause 5; and the Bill so treats them In this perspective, they are not entitled to the elaborate detailed expression given to them in the English Act. Clauses 7 and 8, accordingly, reproduce section 2 of the English Act in a condensed form.

Clause 9.—The English law uses the expression "partnership at will" in section 27, but does not contain any definition of "partnership at will." In section 26 it merely paraphrases the expression in these terms—"Where no fixed term has been agreed upon for the duration of the partnership"; and in section 32 (c) as—"entered into for an undefined term." The contrasted wording of sections 26 and 32 has given rise to considerable difficulty in practice. On the language in section 26 it has been contended that even where an agreement of partnership provided that a partnership should be terminated by mutual agreement only, the partnership must be taken to be a case where no fixed term was agreed upon for its duration, and that, therefore, the partner could under the terms of the section retire by merely giving notice to the other partners notwithstanding the terms of the articles of partnership. The Court of Appeal in England, however, rejected the contention and held that as the duration of the partnership was provided for in the partnership agreement, it was a partnership for a fixed term [Moss v. Elphick (1910) 1 K. B. 846]. To get over the difficulty felt in England, we have inserted a definition of "partnership at will."

Clause 10 is new matter and is inserted to meet cases which are probably much more frequent in India than in England. The practice of establishing "particular partnership" is much favoured by Indian firms with numerous branches, and the practice should not be hampered by doubts regarding the extent of the liabilities of the "particular partner."

The note under clause 4 mentions the three elements in the definition of partnership. The application of these tests to the explanatory clauses following affords some estimate of the value of the definition, as these explanatory clauses are all based on actual cases. In the particular instances given in clause 6 the first element is missing; there is no agreement. Clause 7 is more complicated as the facts in particular cases falling under it may vary very widely. The first two elements may or may not be present but the third element is likely to fail, for even in cases where the activities could come under the description of business, each person in the group acts usually on his own behalf and not as agent of the group. If, in any particular case, all three elements are present, then the group is a firm. In the cases under clause 8, which are also diverse, the first element will usually be present, but the second element will sometimes be lacking and the third element will usually be lacking. In the particular instances given in the clause the third element is certainly lacking, as the persons carrying on the business will not be responsible as agents to the lender, servant, annuitant or seller.

CHAPTER III.—Relations of partners to one another.

Clause 11 is section 257 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. It appears in the English Act, 1890, in a severely pruned form in section 28, on which Underhill comments that "it seems regrettable that the provisions of the Act of 1890 do not affirm this particular general principle, and the omission is the more remarkable because section 257 of the Indian Contract Act provides that the partners are to carry on the business of the partnership for the greatest common advantage, to be just and faithful to each other, and to render accounts, etc. A broad general principle of this kind is just what one would expect to find in a Code, but it is not to be found in the English Act, which treats the subject matter inadequately, by a reference to particular circumstances in sections 28—30." (Underhill's Principles of the Law of Partnership, 3rd Ed. L. 84).

The first portion of the clause may seem to be more didactic than legal, but it is the basis for all claims arising from unfair dealings between partners which are not provided for otherwise.

Clause 12.—Sub-clause (1) expresses the rule contained in section 19 of the English Act and section 252 of the Indian Act, but in a more comprehensive form. The clause is an expression of that most important of all principles of partnership law, namely, that as far as possible the partners should have freedom to arrange their own affairs amongst themselves. It will allow arrangements to be made from time to time, formally or informally, on all matters which affect the partners only. In pursuance of this idea the remaining clauses of this Chapter, and some in Chapters V and VI, are "subject to contract between the partners," that is, they express rules which are applicable in the absence of contracts varying them.

Sub-clause (2) reproduces exception 3 to section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. The subject matter seems to fit in more aptly here, and the exception will accordingly be repealed.

Clauses 13 and 14.—Section 24 of the English Act has been split up, for greater ease in reading, into these two clauses, under which the subject matter has been re-arranged under the heads of the conduct of the business and rules of mutual liability. The only provision omitted is clause 7 of the English section, which has been included in clause 31. The clauses cover most of the matter in section 253 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Some drafting changes have been made, notably in clause (c) of clause 14, which corresponds to clause (4) of section 24 of the English Act, which has been recast so as to make it clear that it applies only in cases where the partner is entitled to interest on his subscribed capital. In clause (d) the rate of interest has been raised from the English standard rate of 5 per cent. to the Indian standard rate of 6 per cent. In addition, some important changes of principle have been introduced into clause (e) (ii), which corresponds to the English clause 2 (h), and in clause (f), which is new matter. The former is fully discussed in the note on clause 21. As regards the latter, clauses 26 and 27 make the whole firm liable to third parties for wrongful acts or omissions of partners, and it is desirable to provide for a right of indemnity to the other partners for loss caused to the firm by the wrongful acts or omissions of a partner. This defect in the Partnership Act is noticed by Lindley at page 472, where he states his opinion that the Partnership Act has not altered the previous law. The absence of a provision in this behalf in the Bill may create difficulty in one of two ways: (1) It may be contended that in view of clause 19 of the Bill the general law of principal and agent applies to the case, in the absence of an express provision to the contrary; and, under the terms of section 212 of the Contract Act, each partner is liable to the other partner in respect of the direct consequences of his own neglect, want of skill or misconduct. This degree of liability is very wide, and the liability of a partner for wrongful acts and omissions has never been so widely extended, either in India or in England. It is the accepted view that even where loss sustained by the firm may be imputed to the conduct of one partner more than to that of another, still if the former acted bonâ fide with a view to the benefit of the firm, and without culpable negligence, the loss must be borne equally by all (Lindley, page 471). A partner's liability to indemnify the firm arises only when the loss is due to his fraud, culpable negligence or wilful default (Lindley, p. 472; vide also Halsbury's Laws of England, para. 116). The American Law is the same (vide American Cyclopedia, Vol. 30, pages 452-53). (2) If, on the other hand, it should be held that section 212 of the Indian Contract Act is not applicable to partners, then under the general terms of clause 14 (b), in the absence of a special agreement to the contrary, all the partners are liable to contribute equally to the losses sustained by the firm. It cannot be denied that such a result would be inequitable. We have, therefore, introduced clause (f) of clause 14, making the partner liable to indemnify the firm for loss arising from his own fraud or wilful neglect. We are aware of the difficulties underlying the phrase "wilful neglect," but we use it as meaning that degree of neglect shown by abstention from an obvious duty, attended by a knowledge of the likely results of the abstention.

Clauses 15 and 16.—These clauses contain the substance of sub-section (1) of section 20 and of section 21 of the English Act, and of section 253 (1) of the Indian Act, but the matter has been re-arranged. An important difference is the introduction of the goodwill of the business, which is now specifically included among the property of the firm. It will, subject to contract between the partners, be included automatically in all accounts for the determination of shares.

Clause 17.—Sections 29 (1) and 30 of the English Act, corresponding to sections 258 and 259 of the Indian Act, have been run together into this clause, without change of substance. Sub-section (2) of section 29 has been placed in the Chapter on the dissolution of the firm, where it appears as clause 50.

Clause 18 gives general rules for the determination of the rights and duties of the partners after the happening of events which would otherwise leave those rights and duties undetermined. Clause (a) covers cases where there has been a change in the firm, and is intended to remove doubts in cases similar to King v. Chuck (17 Beav. 325) (see Lindley, page 498). Clause (b) contains the substance of section 27 of the English Act and of section 256 of the Indian Act. Clause (c) fills an obvious omission by providing for the case where a firm formed for particular undertakings proceeds to carry out other undertakings.

CHAPTER IV.—Relations of partners to third parties.

This Chapter is mostly taken up with the statement and development of the principle that each partner is the agent of the firm. In arrangement it differs widely from the corresponding part of the English Act. It elaborates some of the provisions of that part and omits others, and introduces some new matter.

Clause 19 begins with the first principle given in section 5 of the English Act—that every partner is an agent of the firm. It also contains the next important principle in section 5 of the English Act, which defines the general extent of a partner's agency, namely, that an act of a partner which—

(a) is done to carry on business of the kind carried on by the firm, and

(b) is done in the way usual in such a business

binds the firm. The remainder of the English section is contained in clause 20.

The second paragraph in sub-clause (1) of clause 19 introduces a convenient term intended to avoid confusion when references are made to the authority of a partner as agent. The authority defined in the first paragraph of the sub-clause has been variously designated as "implied," "ordinary," "apparent," and "ostensible" and it is sometimes not clear what the exact meaning of these terms may be. The word "implied" is favoured by Lindley and seems to be the most suitable, as the kind of agency contemplated is one which flows from, or is implied by, the partnership of a partner.

Sub-clause (2) has no statutory precedent, but has been extracted from section 2 of Chapter I of Book II of Lindley's work, which contains an exhaustive account of the subject of the extent and limitations of a partner's implied authority. The selection has been made with regard to Indian conditions.

Clause (a) reproduces Stead v. Salt (3 Bing 101), which has been followed in 22 All. 135.

Clause (b) is Alliance Bank v. Kearsley (L. R. 6 C. P. 433).

Clause (c) is a proposition on the law of agency contained in many rulings, see Lindley, page 195.

Clause (d) is contrary to Harwood v. Edwards cited by Lindley at page 354, a case which seems to be unreported. It seems unreasonable to hold that a partner cannot compromise a claim by the firm but that he can withdraw a suit. The clause as drafted seems best suited to Indian conditions.

Clause (e)—This is Hambidge v. De la Crouee (3 C. B. 742).

Clause (f) follows Sharpe v. Milligan (22 Beav. 606) and 16 Bom. 568, setting aside 19 Mad. 471.

Clause (g) is covered by Harrison v. Jackson (7 T. R. 207).

Clause (h) is from Singleton v. Knight (13 A. C. 788).

We are equally divided on the value and soundness of this sub-clause, but have agreed to let it stand in the Bill, as its deletion will be a simple matter for the Legislature. Those of us who would retain it argue as follows:

"The delimitation of a partner's implied authority in sub-clause (1) is not precise, but as this subject covers such a wide field of human activity, it would be an impossible task to provide for all the necessary elements in any precise definition. Sub-clause (l) is, admittedly, a provision of the kind which must lead to much judicial exposition. But certain rules have already been established in the English Courts, and the adoption of such of them as seem to be suited to Indian conditions must be a distinct gain; for, to the extent of their inclusion, they will be known in business circle and will not have to be established by the slow and expensive method of litigation. Apart altogether from the historical bases of the propositions contained in this sub-clause, or their validity as general propositions of English law, we who favour their retention regard them as useful guides in India, in the absence of a contract to the contrary. They should be particularly valuable in courts which do not possess an extensive library."

On the other hand, those of us who would delete the sub-clause argue as follows:

"The sub-clause assumes that in the contemplation of the Legislature the exercise of these powers is not a usual method of carrying on business by a partner or partners. We do not think that there is any warrant for such a general assumption. A close examination of the decided cases cited in Lindley shows that, in regard to some of the points, they are based upon the historical accidents of English law, and, in regard to other points, the sub-clause does not accurately set out the effect of the English decision, inasmuch as the English decisions themselves do not purport to lay down any absolute rule of law without reference to the usage obtaining in the particular trade or business. The rule as to arbitration stated in Lindley on page 186 rests on the decision in Stead v. Salt. The discussion of the subject in Story in section 114 points to the conclusion that to some extent the rule is based, not upon any intrinsic principle of partnership law, but upon the ancient reason that it is not right to remove any matter from the cognisance of the established Courts of Justice. These Courts are best equipped to investigate the merits of a case by proper legal proof and testimony; whereas the equipment of arbitrators is slender. From the note in Story under section 114 we gather that some of the American Courts have refused to lay down any such general restriction and have distinguished the early English cases as resting on special grounds. From Comyn's Digest we gather that the prohibition was based on the necessity for a reference to arbitration being under seal under the early English law. It may be further observed that an arbitration clause is usual in the case of contracts for the sale of goods, and to deny a partner the power to refer to arbitration would really be to deprive him of the power to carry on business in the usual way. Clause (c) deals with compromising or relinquishing any claim or portion of a claim. Story in section 115 states it as an undoubted proposition of law that a partner may release or even compound or compromise a partnership debt. In 3 C. B. 742 at page 745 Maule J. states the law to be that a partner may release debts because he has authority to receive them. The decision in 11 M. & W., page 84, also lends support to the view that a partner can release a claim. In fact the Solicitor General who contested the release in that case conceded that it is clear that if two partners commence an action one may release the subject matter of it, and that unless there be fraud to induce the Court to interfere and set aside the release, it is binding upon the other plaintiff and operates as a bar to the action. The cases cited in Lindley at page 195 in support of the proposition that a partner has no authority to compromise do not seem to bear out the proposition in the wide terms stated in the text. They are all cases where a partner sought to set off and adjust a private debt due by him in discharge of a debt due to the firm. Clause (f) which denies authority to a partner to take a lease on behalf of the firm of immoveable property rests on the case in 22 Beav. 606. The decision, however, is an authority only for the proposition that in the case of partnership at will a partner cannot bind the firm by taking a lease for twenty-one years. Clause (g) as to transfer of immoveable property is taken from Lindley, pages 196 and 200. The rule in England is based upon the accidents of English law of real property as to conveyance of legal estate by deed. It is settled law in England that a partner can effect a mortgage by deposit of title deeds. The clause as it stands would prohibit such a mortgage because a mortgage by deposit of title deeds would be a transfer of immoveable property, by the operation of section 58 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. A mortgage by deposit of title deeds is a normal method of raising money for a firm in the Presidency-towns, and there is no reason why the Legislature should commit itself to the principle that in the absence of a contract to the contrary it is not a usual method of carrying on business. Similarly the obtaining of a lease may be ancillary and necessary to the carrying on of the business of a firm. In the circumstances, we would prefer that the whole clause should be deleted and that it should be left to the Courts to decide whether in any case the exercise of the particular power will amount to carrying on the business in the usual way. It is not right in principle that the Legislature should categorically lay down that particular acts are not in the usual way of business and thereby crystallise the discretion of Courts, because from the very nature of things, such a list cannot be exhaustive."

Clause 20.—Sub-clause (1) of clause 19 defines the implied authority of a partner. As the guiding principle of the partnership law is to leave as much freedom as possible to the partners, there should be a provision whereby partners may authorise a trusted partner to do necessary acts which are in excess of the implied authority, and whereby they may restrict the activities of an inexperienced partner. Clause 20 makes this provision.

These arrangements are made by the partners themselves in their own interests, and it is equitable that they should not prejudice third parties. Hence the second paragraph provides that a restriction placed on a partner's implied authority shall have no effect upon a third party dealing with a firm unless that third party has notice of the restriction. Every person dealing with a firm is entitled to assume that all the partners wield the full implied authority, subject only to such restrictions as have been brought within his knowledge.

The last three lines deal with a case where the third party does not know that he is dealing with a partner in a firm, when obviously he has no expectations from the firm and has no right to hold it liable if the partner exceeds his actual authority. The words are taken, with slight alteration, from the last words of section 5 of the English Act.

Clause 21.—This is a new provision. The English Partnership Act, though it lays down in section 5 the authority of a partner in terms similar to clause 19 of the Bill, contains no provision enabling a partner to bind the firm by any act done in an emergency for the preservation of the business or the property of the firm, when the act is not in accordance with the usual method of transacting business. In fact the law may be stated to be that the power to do what is usual does not extend to doing what is unusual. Nevertheless, the English Act in section 24 (2) provides for the indemnity of a partner by his co-partners for anything necessarily done for the preservation of the business or the property of the firm. The exact grounds of that indemnity are not clear, though Pollock and Lindley seem to rest it on the doctrine of salvage. In accordance with this doctrine Lindley would confine the indemnity to cases where the property of the business is in fact preserved by the act of the partner. We are of opinion that there is no reason why a partner should not have the emergency powers which are conceded to an agent under section 212 of the Indian Contract Act, or why the right to indemnity should not be co-extensive with the authority of the partner. We have accordingly introduced a special clause, in the terms of section 212 of the Contract Act, and have made appropriate changes in regard to the right of indemnity in clause (e) (ii) of clause 14.

Clause 22.—This represents section 6 of the English Act, but is expressed differently. The English model says that certain acts if done in a certain way bind the firm. This clause says that these acts do not bind the firm unless they are done in a certain way. This seems to be the intention of the English model and to be the law in England—see Lindley, pages 242-3, and Underhill, page 63.

Clauses 23 and 24 are sections 15 and 16 of the English Act with slight verbal modifications.

Clause 25.—This is the general statement of the liability of a partner for the liabilities of the firm. Sections 249 and 250 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, merely provide that each partner is liable for all the liabilities of the firm, but does not say that the partners are all liable jointly and severally. Section 9 of the English Act makes the partners liable jointly for contractual liabilities, and section 12 makes them jointly and severally liable for tortious liabilities. Section 43 of the Indian Act makes joint promisors generally liable jointly and severally, and this general principle has been applied to partnership liabilities in India (6 Bom. 706, 17 Bom. 6). The clause expresses this principle. The liability relates to both contracts and torts.

Clauses 26 and 27 describe the tortious acts for which a firm is liable. They reproduce sections 10 and 11 of the English Act, with very little change.

Clause 28 introduces the doctrine of "holding out." It represents sections 245 and 246 of the Indian Act, and section 14 of the English Act.

Clause 29, like clause 30, relates to persons who are third parties, but have a footing inside the firm. Clause 29 relates to assignees of the whole of a partner's share in the firm. These persons may be complete strangers to the non-transferring partners and may be personally objectionable to them. The clause, which closely follows section 31 of the English Act, gives the assignee very limited rights. There is no corresponding provision in the Indian Act.

Clause 30.—We have carefully considered the position of a minor under the Indian law of partnership. Under the English law, there is nothing to preclude an infant from entering into a contract of partnership, though, speaking generally, while he is an infant, he incurs no liability and is not responsible for the debts of the firm, and when he comes of age or even before he may disaffirm past transactions. In view of section 11 of the Indian Contract Act and the decision of the Privy Council in Mahori Bibi's case as to the general incapacity of an infant to enter into a contract, we feel that there is no justification, with reference to the law of partnership only, for departing from this principle of the Indian law, and thereby unsettling it. At the same time it has been the law since 1866 that a minor may be admitted to the benefits of partnership, and that a minor becomes personally liable for the obligations of the firm if he does not repudiate the partnership within a reasonable time after his attaining age—vide sections 247 and 248 of the Contract Act. Section 247 has been interpreted by the Judicial Committee to mean that the minor cannot be a partner in the firm. The Contract Act is defective, however, in that it does not, in express terms, provide that the minor on attaining age becomes a partner, if he does not repudiate his connection with the firm within a reasonable time, though this principle is implied in section 248. The Act is also defective in omitting to lay down fully the rights and remedies of a minor sharer as such. Clause 30, while retaining the existing law as to the minor's position, is intended to remedy the defects above pointed out. Sub-clause (1) makes it clear that a minor cannot be a partner in a firm, but that he can be admitted "to the benefits of partnership," and that he can be given this footing in the firm only by the express consent of the partners, and cannot be thrust upon them; for he is a potential partner, and his introduction should be subject to the consent of all the partners in the same way as the introduction of a new adult partner. Sub-clause (2) sets out the rights of the minor, and sub-clause (3) his liabilities. Sub-clause (4) lays down his ultimate remedy for enforcing his rights, which will take the form of a suit for account and payment of his share. The sub-clause also safeguards the partners against being saddled with a debt which the business cannot meet by allowing them to convert the suit into one for dissolution and for accounts as between all the parties. Sub-clause (5) states the equitable principle that the minor, who has had no active part in building up the business and its connection, is not entitled to a share of the goodwill. Sub-clause (6) makes it clear that on attaining majority the minor has the option of becoming a partner in the firm or of severing his connection with it. If he chooses the former, he need take no definite action, and he becomes personally liable as a partner as if he had been a partner from the date of his admission to the benefits of partnership. If he chooses the latter course, he can make his choice effective only by giving public notice, within a reasonable time, that he has severed his connection with the firm. If he fails to give notice, third parties will be entitled to treat him as a partner. As regards the nature of a public notice, see clause 71.

CHAPTER V.—Incoming and outgoing partners.

Though Chapter VII on the Registration of Firms is the most important departure in the Bill as regards substance, this Chapter is the most important departure as regards form. As mentioned in our Report, it contains no material change in the law of partnership, but it collects together and sets out in a convenient form all rules relating to the coming in of a partner, and all rules relating to the going out of a partner in so far as these rules do not relate to the dissolution of the firm or to the consequences of dissolution. As a result of the limitation on the selection of these provisions, they relate chiefly to what is referred to in various places in the Bill as a "change in the firm," that is, a change in the constitution of the firm which has not resulted in the dissolution of the firm. However, a few provisions, such as clause 34 (1) and clause 37 are of general application, that is, they apply where the firm continues without dissolution, and also where a dissolved firm is reconstituted and carries on the business with the property and assets of the dissolved firm. For this reason, the Chapter is given the non-committal title of "Incoming and outgoing partners," rather than the restricted title of "Change in a Firm," which would otherwise have been more suitable.

Clause 31.—The main proposition in sub-clause (1) comes from clause (7) of section 24 of the English Act and sub-section (6) of section 253 of the Indian Act. The general idea is that the consent of all existing partners is required to the introduction of a new partner, in order that the firm may work harmoniously. However, if a previous contract has been made by the partners to the effect, for example, that the senior partner shall have the right of introducing a new partner at any time or juncture, the contract will be binding on the partners, even though when the time comes or the juncture arises, one or more of the partners may be unwilling to accept the new partner.

Sub-clause (2) relates to the liability of a new partner for the existing debts of the firm, and is taken from section 17 (1) of the English Act and the latter portion of section 279 of the Indian Act. The sub-clause maintains the peculiar higher liability, under sub-clause (6) of clause 30, of the minor potential partner who elects to become a full partner. The clause makes no provision for the liability of the new partner for future debts of the firm, as this is covered by the general provision of clause 25.

Clause 32.—In this clause, the word "retire" is properly confined to cases where a partner withdraws from a firm and the remaining partners continue to carry on the business of the firm without dissolution of partnership as between them. It does not cover the case where a partner withdraws from a firm by dissolving it, which should properly be referred as a dissolution and not as a retirement.

According to Lindley (page 698), the right of a partner to retire is very restricted. This clause appears to widen the right as set out in Lindley's three rules, but in fact it does so to a very small extent. Clause (a) corresponds to Lindley's first rule, and covers cases where a partner is allowed to retire at any time on an amicable arrangement then made with his partners. Clause (b) appears to be new, but it is probably included in Lindley's first rule. It covers cases where the retirement is made in pursuance of a previous arrangement consented to by all, as is frequently done in the articles of partnership. Here, however, at the time the retirement occurs, the partner has the right to retire whether or not his co-partners are still agreeable. Clause (c) is merely a very slight extension of the right of a partner to dissolve a partnership at will by notice (vide clause 43 of the Bill and section 32 of the English Act). It is hoped that this clause will soften to some extent the hard rule laid down by Lindley on page 697 that "there is only one method by which a partner can retire from a firm without the consent of his co-partners, and that is by dissolving the firm." The clause will allow a partner in a partnership at will to retire from the firm without dissolving it, if he has no claim against the firm or thinks his claim will be settled amicably without a winding up. His right to dissolve the firm, if he considers that to be the better course, is unimpaired.

Sub-clause (2) represents sub-section (3) of section 17 of the Partnership Act, 1890. Sub-section (2) of that section is covered by clause 25.

Sub-clause (3) represents section 36 of the English Act, confined to the case of retirement and re-stated so as to conform with the drafting of similar sub-clauses in the preceding and succeeding clauses. The clause covers the liability of the retired partner for acts of the firm, and the liability of the firm for acts of the retired partner. As regards giving notice to customers, the English law is that separate notices must be given to old customers but public notice to new customers is sufficient. This may be a serious undertaking for a partner leaving a firm which deals with numerous customers in India, and we propose to dispense with separate notices to old customers and to make public notice sufficient in all cases. As regards the nature of public notice, see clause 71.

Clause 33.—The clause regards expulsion in the same way as clause 32 regards retirement; that is, it makes the proper assumption that the firm continues after the expulsion without a dissolution of partnership as between the remaining partners.

Sub-clause (1) embraces section 36 of the English Act and also the rule in Blisset v. Daniel (10 Hare, 493), whereby a power of expulsion must be exercised bonâ fide. A full discussion of this rule is given on pages 516 and 517 of Lindley.

Sub-clause (2) places an expelled partner on precisely the same footing as a retired partner as regards his liabilities for existing and future debts of the firm. There seems to be no valid reason for making any difference.

Clause 34.—The Indian law on the effect of the insolvency of a single partner is meagre. It is contained in section 254 (2) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and is to the effect that when a partner has been adjudicated an insolvent any other partner may sue for the dissolution of the firm. The provisions of the Partnership Act, 1890, contain more details but not many. Sub-section (1) of section 33 runs—"Subject to any agreement between the partners, every partnership is dissolved as regards all the partners by the death or bankruptcy of any partner." From this it follows that, when there is an agreement that the firm shall continue the bankrupt partner drops out and the remaining partners continue as such, without a dissolution of their partnership. Section 38, which provides for the continuance of the authority of the partners after dissolution for the purposes of the winding up of the affairs of the firm, states as a broad exception that "the firm is in no case bound by the acts of a partner, who has become bankrupt." This seems to be a rule which applies generally to bankrupt partners and not merely to such partners in the special circumstances of the winding up of the firm, as may be seen from Thomason v. Frere (10, East, 418). This view is stated clearly by Lindley on page 823. On general grounds also it seems reasonable that an insolvent, who is incapable of obtaining credit for himself, should not be allowed to obtain credit for or pledge the credit of a firm. Clause 34 proceeds on these lines, adapting them to the case of the continuing firm.

Sub-clause (1) states the principle that the insolvency of a partner severs his connection with the firm. The English Act antedates the dissolution back to the act of bankruptcy, but it is considered that this would be impracticable in India, and that section 254 (2) of the Indian Act should be followed in this matter. Hence the definite date of the order of adjudication has been selected as the date on which the insolvent ceases to be a partner.

Sub-clause (2) contains two rules: (1) It lays down that the estate of the insolvent is not liable for any act of the firm done after the date of adjudication. This rule is taken from sub-section (3) of section 36 of the English Act, and it is justified by the general consideration that the adjudication of the insolvent is a notorious event and no further notice thereof is required either to old or to new customers of the firm. (2) It also contains the complementary rule that the firm is not bound by the acts of the insolvent done after the date of adjudication. This is based on Thomason v. Frere cited above.

Clause 35 is derived from sub-section (3) of section 36 of the English Act. Like clause 34, it is confined to the case where the firm continues without dissolution. Where dissolution has occurred, these matters are provided for in clauses 45 and 47.

Clause 36 relates to restrictions which are imposed on the activities of outgoing partners, in order to prevent unfair competition with the firm. Sub-clause (1) is entirely new and presents some points of interest. The typical and most frequent case is that of a partner who retires from the firm. He has received, presumably, payment for the value of his share in the property of the firm, and this property includes the goodwill of the business. A retiring partner, therefore, may be regarded as having sold his share of the goodwill of the business along with his share in the other assets to his fellow partners. He is vis-à-vis his partners in the same position as a person who sells the goodwill of his business to another. Similar considerations apply to an expelled partner, for, though he may have left the firm unwillingly, he either has no claim against the firm or receives some payment in liquidation. Similar considerations apply also to a partner who is adjudicated insolvent, for though he does not receive the value of his share, his estate does.

The rules contained in sub-clause (1), therefore, are a statement of the chief judicial rulings on the subject of the sale of goodwill, narrowed to the particular application where a partner sells, or is deemed to sell, his share of the goodwill to his fellow partners. These rules are discussed in detail under clause 57, which is of more general application.

Sub-clause (2) modifies the rule contained in the opening passage of sub-clause (1) whereby the right is given to a retiring partner to carry on business competing with that of the firm. It is derived from the second exception to section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, which will be repealed.

Clause 37 is section 42 of the English Act with a few verbal changes, and with the Indian standard rate of six per cent. substituted for the English standard rate of five per cent.

Clause 38.—This is section 18 of the English Act and section 260 of the Indian Act.

CHAPTER VI.—Dissolution of a firm.

This Chapter is derived from that part of the English Act which is headed "Dissolution of Partnership and its consequences," but it excludes certain matters already included in the previous Chapter, and introduces some new matter, notably clause 54 on goodwill.

Clause 39 contains the definition of "dissolution of a firm." This phrase is used in preference to "dissolution of partnership," which has an element of ambiguity as it may refer to the severance of the connection of one partner with the firm, or to the complete breakdown of the relation of partnership between all the partners. Only the latter meaning is dealt with in this Chapter. The severance of the connection of one partner only is dealt with in the previous Chapter.

Clause 40 covers the case where all the partners agree that the firm should then be dissolved; and also the case where the dissolution occurs in pursuance of a contract previously made, for example, in the articles of partnership.

Clause 41 relates to events whose occurrence unavoidably dissolves a firm. Clause (a) is new, but needs no comment. Clause (b) is section 34 of the English Act and section 255 of the Indian Act. The proviso incorporates a suggestion made by Lindley at page 682.

Clause 42 relates to events whose occurrence will dissolve the firm if there is no agreement to the contrary. Clause (a) is clause (a) of section 32 of the English Act. Clause (b) is clause (b) of that section. Clauses (c) and (d) are sub-section (1) of section 33 of that Act.

Clause 43 relates to the dissolution of partnership at will. It is taken from clause (c) and the last paragraph of section 32 of the English Act.

Clause 44 gives in detail the grounds on which a partner may sue for dissolution of the firm. Clauses (a), (b), (c), (d), (f) and (g) reproduce, with slight modifications, the six clauses of section 35 of the English Act. Clause (e) incorporates sub-section (2) of section 33 of the English Act, but it is of wider application than that sub-section, and is an elaboration of clause (3) of section 254 of the Indian Act. The English law on the effect of the assignment by a partner of his share is not clear (Lindley, pages 694-5), and it is desirable to adhere to the Indian law on this point.

Clause 45 should be read with clauses 32, 33 and 34. Section 36 (1) of the English Act seems to confine the application of the principle contained in it to dealings with a firm after a change in its constitution; nevertheless it is accepted law in England that after the dissolution of a firm persons dealing with its partners are entitled to assume that they continue to be each other's agents until notice is given of the dissolution. There is indeed no reason to differentiate, in this matter of the presumed continuance of mutual agency, between the case where a partner leaves the firm and the case where the firm is dissolved.

The proviso reproduces sub-section (3) of section 36 of the English Act.

Clause 46 is section 39 of the English Act, less the last thirty words which seem unnecessary. It affirms the right of partners or their representatives to a share of the net assets of the firm after the dissolution of the firm.

Clause 47 follows section 38 of the English Act.

Clause 48.—This is the "accounting" clause and is most important. It is copied, with only very slight verbal alterations, from section 44 of the English Act and requires little explanation. That section has stood with success the incessant and vigilant scrutiny of lawyers, accountants and business men in England for nearly forty years, and may safely be followed.

Clause 49 reproduces section 262 of the Indian Contract Act.

Clause 50 is sub-section (2) of section 29 of the English Act, with necessary verbal changes.

Clauses 51 and 52 are sections 40 and 41 of the English Act, with a few verbal changes.

Clause 53 is complementary to clause 50. The earlier clause does not prevent a partner from using the firm connection or property for his private ends during the winding up, but requires him to account for the profits he obtains thereby. The present clause gives a power to the other partners or their representatives to prevent any partner absolutely from using the firm name or property until the winding up is completed.

Clause 54 does not profess to be an exhaustive codification of all the judicial rulings on the difficult subject of goodwill. It includes only the outstanding rules, and does not introduce the various refined modifications and qualifications disclosed by a study of the English case law appertaining thereto. The clause introduces a subject which so far has not found its way into the Indian Statute-book, and only to a very small extent into the law reports; and it seems advisable, to begin with, to state only the broadest rules and to find out by experience how far they require modification and qualification to suit Indian conditions.

The term "goodwill" has been defined in various ways, but never quite successfully, and it is not proposed to make the attempt here. It is sufficient that there is an intangible but valuable thing attached to a healthy business which is known to all as the "goodwill of the business"; and the Bill uses this well known term without defining it, and then lays down the consequences which ordinarily follow when it is sold under that name. A full discussion of goodwill is given by Lindley on pages 536 to 547.

Clause 15 has already included the goodwill of the business in the property of the firm. Sub-clause (1) of clause 54 re-asserts this from a particular point of view, and requires that the goodwill of the business shall be sold like any other part of the property of the firm when the affairs of the firm are wound up, either along with other property or separately. The definite inclusion of goodwill as part of the property of the firm renders this sub-clause a short and inevitable further step, requiring little justification; but it is in accordance with English law as given in Jennings v. Jennings [(1898)1 Ch. 378 at page 389], Hill v. Fearis [(1905) 1 Ch. 466], In re David and Matthews [(1899)1 Ch. 378], and other cases.

Sub-clause (2) begins with an important proposition defining the rights which are ordinarily retained by the seller of a goodwill. In spite of the sale of the goodwill of a firm, any partner may set up a competing business alongside the old premises of the firm, and may even advertise the business—Kennedy v. Lee (3 Mer. 452), Hookham v. Pottage (8 Ch. 91). This is in accordance with the over-riding principle that a man may trade as he chooses, in fair competition with others. If he wishes to obtain a higher value for his goodwill by restricting this right, he must make a special bargain [see sub-clause (3)]. Things which he may not do are given in (a), (b) and (c) of the sub-clause:

(a) he may not use the firm-name—Churton v. Douglas (Johns, 174);

(b) he may not represent himself as succeeding to the business of the firm (ibid);

(c) he may not solicit old customers of the firm—Trego v. Hunt [(1896) A. C. 7].

These propositions are fairly simple, and follow naturally from the sale of the goodwill of the business; for, though the seller is entitled to carry on a competing business, yet he must not do so in a way by which he would derive any direct benefit from his connection with the business whose goodwill he has sold for value.

These simple rules do not exhaust the English rulings on the subject, which have introduced many refinements and distinctions, particularly in connection with clause (c). The Bill does not propose to adopt any of these. In particular it does not include the proposition that where a partner has been adjudicated insolvent, he is not prevented from soliciting the old customers of the firm. This is based on Cruttwell v. Lye (17 Ves. 335) and Walker v. Mottram (19 Ch. D. 355), which are derived from the general consideration that the insolvent's share in the assets of the firm, including the goodwill, is sold over his head, for the benefit of his creditors, and he himself is in no way privy to the sale and should not therefore be bound by a condition which amounts to a personal undertaking. It seems to us that the better rule is to provide that the value of the goodwill should be left unimpaired, for the benefit of the creditors of the insolvent. The English rulings go further than this and would extend the rule in Cruttwell v. Lye to expelled partners, and to sales by a Court in an action for dissolution and sales by a trustee of a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors (Lindley, page 537, footnote d), but in these cases the sale usually follows from what was originally a voluntary act by the seller and the seller derives some benefit from the sale. It seems undesirable to define and elaborate the new statutory rules to this extent. In any case, these matters are expressed to be subject to agreement by the buyer and the partner concerned, and, where there is no agreement, any loss to the seller arising from the absence of these refinements, which are all in favour of the seller, will be balanced by the enhanced value of the goodwill.

Sub-clause (3), as with sub-clause (2) of clause 36, is a modification of the general rule that each partner may carry on a business competing with that of which the goodwill has been sold, and is derived from Explanation 1 to section 27 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

CHAPTER VII.—Registration of firms.

Clause 55 gives power to the Governor General in Council to exempt from the provisions of this Chapter any undeveloped area to which its provisions may not be suited.

Clause 57.—Sub-clause (1) is based on section 3 of the Registration of Business Names Act, 1916 (6 and 7 George V c. 58), but it reduces the particulars to be furnished to the minimum required for the information and benefit of third parties. Nothing of the internal economy of the firm need be disclosed beyond the mere names of the partners, and the duration of their partnership.

Sub-clause (3) is taken from sub-section (3) of section 11 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

Clause 58.—In connection with this clause and with the succeeding clauses two points should be noted:

(1) The Registrar is a mere recording officer and the entries he makes in the Register will contain only the facts, or alleged facts, of which he is given notice. So long as any statement or notice is formally correct he has no discretion but to record them in the Register of Firms.

(2) In addition to making the necessary entries in the Register of Firms, he is required to file the original of every document submitted to him. The original statement and all subsequent statements and notices will be filed together, so that all original papers relating to any firm will be conveniently found together in one file.

Clause 59 relates to the recording of alterations in the firm name and the principal place of business of the firm, and it requires the same degree of formality as is required for the original statement under clause 58.

Clause 60 relates to the noting in the Register of the closing and opening of branches. This is a less important matter and the clause permits of the notice being sent by any partner.

Clause 61 relates to the noting of changes in the names and addresses of partners, which is likewise performed in a less formal manner.

Clause 62.—Sub-clause (1) should be read with clauses 32, 33, 45 and 71. These are important matters but as the law of partnership allows notice to customers to be given by any partner, this clause gives the same right, and does not require these important matters to be notified by all the partners acting together.

Sub-clause (2) should be read with clauses 30 and 71.

Clause 63 confers on the Registrar a power to correct clerical errors, whether made by himself or by the persons sending him statements or notices.

Clause 64.—It has been mentioned under clause 58 that the Registrar is a mere recording officer. He will have no power to enter into the accuracy of the statements contained in any document sent to him. Clause 64 gives to the civil courts the necessary power of correction in cases of dispute.

Clause 65.—Sub-clause (1) makes the Register open to inspection by any person on application and on payment of a fee.

Sub-clause (2) makes the original documents filed by the Registrar open to inspection, but subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by rules. It is deemed inadvisable to allow untrammelled inspection by any member of the public of these important documents. The rules will probably require inspection to be carried out under some kind of supervision, and will require the person applying for inspection to show that he is in some way interested in the contents of the original documents, and that inspection of the Register itself is not sufficient for his purposes.

Clause 66 gives an unrestricted right to any member of the public to obtain a certified copy of an entry in the Register, on payment of the prescribed fee. This right does not extend to the original documents.

Clause 67 makes the original documents filed with the Registrar conclusive evidence of the facts contained therein, as against any person who has signed them. It also makes certified copies of entries in the Register evidence of registration and of the contents of the originals.

Clause 68.—This important clause provides the pressure which is to be brought to bear on partners to have the firm and themselves registered. Its force has already been discussed in paragraphs 19 to 23 of our Report.

Clause 69 imposes a penalty for making a false declaration in any document sent to the Registrar.

Clause 70 gives power to the Local Government to make rules to supplement the provisions of the Chapter. The only point which calls for special comment is clause (j), whereunder rules may be made providing for the maintenance and form of an index to the Register of Firms. These rules will have to be carefully drafted so that the index will be a real convenience to members of the public and will enable them to trace without delay or trouble the existence of any partnership.

The rules are to be subject to the condition of previous publication.

CHAPTER VIII.—Supplemental.

Clause 71 should be read with clauses 30, 32, 33, 45 and 62.

Clause 72 read with the Schedule effects the repeals which have already been mentioned in connection with clauses 12 and 36 and of Chapter XI of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. It also repeals the Burma Registration of Business Names Act, 1920, in deference to opinions from that province, which on the whole favour a unified scheme on the lines of Chapter VII, in preference to the scheme of Burma Registration of Business Names Act, 1920, for certain towns, and the scheme of Chapter VII elsewhere. The final decision as regards the repeal of this Act, however, will be made after further opportunity has been given to the Government of Burma to consult local opinion.

Clause 73 is a formal clause intended to save existing rights and existing rules of law not specifically affected.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Department.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 26th January, 1931:—

L. A. BILL No. 16 OF 1931.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, for a certain purpose.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, for the purpose hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XI of 1922.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Income-tax (Amendment) Act, 1931.

Amendment of section 58C, Act XI of 1922.

2. In clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 58C of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, after the word "trustees" the words "or in the Official Trustee" shall be inserted. XI of 1922.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under sub-section (1) (e) of section 58C of the Indian Income-tax Act (XI of 1922), a private provident fund must be vested in two or more trustees. It appears desirable to amend the Act so as to enable the Official Trustee to be appointed sole Trustee of the fund, should those concerned desire to appoint him.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Dacca, the 24th February 1931.

Second forecast of the Wheat Crop of Bengal, 1930-31.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1928-29, the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·4 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of the irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has, in the five years ending 1928-29, averaged (a) 38·1 and (b) 11·1 per cent., respectively.)

Character of the season.—As stated in the first forecast, the weather was generally favourable at sowing time though heavy rain in the latter part of November retarded the germination of the crop in some districts. Subsequently dry weather in the following month proved beneficial to the growth, but the drought being prolonged up till the end of January has affected the prospects a little. On the whole, however, the season is a satisfactory one for the crop this year.

Acreage.—According to the estimates of the District Officers the total area sown amount to 141,800 acres this year as against 126,200 acres both in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Outturn.—The average provincial outturn, as worked out from district estimates is 85 per cent. of the normal as against 84 and 81 per cent., respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

ROBERT S. FINLOW,
Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Second forecast of the spring oilseed crops of Bengal, 1930-31.

Dacca, the 27th February 1931.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1928-29, the area under linseed in Bengal has represented some 3·4 per cent. and that under rape and mustard 11·3 per cent. of the total areas under these crops in British India.)

Character of the season.—As indicated in the first forecast, the weather was favourable at the time when the crops were sown. But excessive rain in the latter part of November hampered the germination and growth in some districts. Absence of rain in December enabled the crops to recover from the effects of wet weather but the drought, which extended up till the end of January, has proved a little harmful to the development of the crops. The season, on the whole, has been a satisfactory one for the crops this year.

Area sown.—Oilseeds are chiefly grown in the Rajshahi, Dacca and Presidency Divisions. In the other two divisions the cultivation is small. The total area under these crops (excepting sesamum for which separate forecasts are issued), is returned at 914,800 acres this year as against 868,200 and 868,300 acres, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Outturn.—From the District Officers' estimates, the average outturn of the different oilseed crops of the Province works out at 83 per cent. of the normal as against 85 per cent. both in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

Rules.

So long as the Commissioners deem it practicable and consistent with the maintenance of an efficient water supply they may grant to any owner or occupier of a holding paying a water rate imposed under the provisions of Part VII of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, on the annual value of such holding, when such annual value is not less than Rs. 200, a connecting pipe from the service-pipes of the Commissioners for the purpose of leading water to such holding for domestic purposes only, subject to the following rules and conditions:—

1. The owner or occupier of any holding requiring water to be laid on to such holding for domestic purposes must apply for the same on the printed form "A" to be supplied free of cost, at the Municipal Office. The conditions subject to which a house connection will be given are set out in the form and the owner or occupier shall sign the statement undertaking to observe the rules before a house connection will be given.

2. A fee of Rs. 50 shall be paid to the Commissioners by such owner or occupier for each connection to a municipal main supply-pipe before any work is commenced, such fee to be in addition to all other costs and charges imposed under these rules.

3. Each holding must have a separate connection to the municipal main supply-pipe, and an extension from the communication-pipe of one holding to another holding shall not be permitted.

4. The connection shall consist of two portions:—

(a) the service-pipe from the street main to the boundary of the holding, including ferrule, stop cock and check pipes;

(b) the storage tank (or tanks) with service-pipe connecting to it from the boundary of the holding, also outlet pipes, taps and other accessories as required.

5. The items referred to in clause (a) of rule 4 shall be provided and fixed by and at the expense of the Commissioners, and such pipes and fittings shall remain as their property.

6. The items referred to in clause (b) of rule 4 shall be provided and fixed at the expense of the owner or occupier and shall be maintained by him in good working order. The tank is to be suitably covered and protected, and is to be provided with locked lid, ball valve, stop valve and overflow pipe.

7. The owner or occupier shall not permit the service-pipe, including the items referred to in clauses (a) and (b) of rule 4 or any part thereof to be altered, removed or interfered with by any person other than an authorised representative of the Commissioners, who shall be empowered by the Commissioners to alter or adjust the service-pipe as may from time to time be necessary for the maintenance of the requisite flow of water.

8. The tank referred to in rule 4 (b) shall be durable and watertight, and the ball valve and other fittings shall be exact duplicates of standard samples kept in the office of the Commissioners and approved by them at a meeting. The storage tank or tanks shall be cleaned and sterilized quarterly at the expense of the owner or occupier under the supervision of the officers of the municipality.

9. Every storage tank shall be fitted with an overflow pipe, the end of which shall project over the wall of the house and shall be placed in a conspicuous position. Discharge of water from the overflow pipe means that the ball valve is failing to function and the owner or occupier shall notify the water works officers every time he finds such discharge occurring.

10. Every owner or occupier of any holding, in respect of which a connection has been made under these rules, shall be entitled to a supply of water in proportion to the water rate paid by him in respect of such holding, according to the following table:—

				Gallons.
Less than Rs. 4 ..		..	..	170

For consumers paying more than Rs. 18 per quarter as water rate, the number of gallons of water to be given per day will be calculated as:—

The quarterly water rate paid (in rupees) multiplied by the figure $\frac{200}{9}$.

11. In case the owner or occupier requires for a special occasion or for any other purpose more water than the amount to which he is entitled according to rule 10, he may apply to the Commissioners in form "B" (obtainable at the Municipal Office free of charge) for a temporary connection. He shall pay in advance the sum of Rs. 20 per tank, and also shall pay weekly the following charges during the whole time he retains the temporary connection:—

12. On receipt of the application, together with the fees as provided in rule 11, the Commissioners shall forthwith install within the compound and at a level of two feet above ground an additional storage tank (or tanks) of 300 gallons capacity with ball valve and two taps fixed to each tank. They shall connect the same to the street main by a service-pipe or pipes, and do all other work necessary to commence and maintain the supply.

The Commissioners shall keep in stock a number of tanks, with pipes, fittings, etc., for the above purpose.

13. The payment referred to in rule 11 shall be made once a week. In case the owner or occupier fails to make the payment weekly, the Commissioners or their officers may at once stop the supply of water and remove the storage tank or tanks, temporary service-pipes, etc.

14. Two or more such temporary connections may be taken, if required, on payment of the additional costs and weekly charges.

15. The Commissioners may cut off the connection between any water works of the Commissioners and any holding to which water is supplied from such works, or may turn off such supply, in any of the following cases, viz.:—

(a) if the holding is unoccupied;
(b) if the occupier fails to pay his water rate;
(c) if the occupier in any way interferes with, damages, or alters the service-pipe; and
(d) if the occupier refuses to admit any officer duly empowered in that behalf into the holding for the purpose of making any examination or inspection of the service-pipe or storage tank, or prevents such officer from making such examination or inspection.

Provided that twenty-four hours' notice in writing of such examination or inspection may be demanded.

16. The works required under rule 4 (b) shall be carried out by a person or firm employed by the owner or occupier and approved by the Commissioners. For this purpose the Commissioners shall grant licenses to approved persons or firms, who should preferably have had previous experience in plumbing work.

17. No connection shall be permitted to any holding unless and until the owner or occupier makes effective provision to the satisfaction of the Commissioners for draining away all waste water.

18. The Commissioners will not be responsible for any interruption or diminution of water supply due to occurrences beyond their control.

Receipts of the Public Works and Irrigation Departments in F. R. Forms 1 and 1-A can be issued only by Divisional Officers, Subdivisional Officers, Zilladars or such sectional officers asmay be authorised to do so by a special order of the Superintending Engineer. Receipt books should be obtained from the head treasury of the district within which their respective headquarters are situated, and the books should be carefully examined to see that the number of forms contained in each are intact, and a certificate of count recorded on the fly leaf. Counterfoils of used receipt books should be returned promptly to the divisional office for record.

(1) Whenever possible, persons making payments should be advised to make the payments direct to those officers who maintain cash books.

(2) Receipt books in duplicate in Form No. 1 will be used in those offices only where cash books are maintained.

(3) Receipt books in triplicate in Form No. 1-A will be used only by Executive Officers and subordinates who do not maintain cash books.

(4) The officer granting a receipt shall on no account lump different items in one counterfoil.

(5) When money is received by an officer or subordinate without a cash book, he shall grant a receipt to the depositor in Financial Rule Form No. 1-A for the amount and shall transmit the amount with the duplicate copy of the receipt direct to such superior officer as maintains a cash book. When the money is received at an outstation by such an officer or subordinate and it can conveniently be paid into a treasury, this should be done. In this case, the treasury challan shall be transmitted instead of the money with the duplicate copy of the receipt to the superior officer who maintains a cash book. The latter officer will enter the receipt at once in the cash book, and give a receipt in Financial Rule Form No. 1 to the subordinate officer, who will attach it to the counterfoil of the original receipt to show that so far as he is concerned the money has been accounted for. In the absence of the Executive Officer in charge, such receipt may be signed by the cashier (or subdivisional clerk where a subdivisional cash book is maintained). The duplicate receipt, or both the duplicate receipt and the treasury challan, as the case may be, received by the superior officer at headquarters from the subordinate officer, shall be attached to the counterfoil of Form No. 1 as soon as a fresh receipt is issued. The receipt book and entries in the cash book shall be checked and initialled by the Executive Officer or subordinate in charge as soon as possible after his return to headquarters.

(6) When the Divisional or the Subdivisional Officer is away from headquarters, no money should be received direct from the payer by the cashier or the subdivisional clerk, but the intending depositor should be directed to pay it to the officer or subordinate at the headquarters, who should be supplied with a receipt book with foils in triplicate Bengal Financial Rule Form No. 1-A, and the officer or subordinate concerned should then proceed as laid down in clause (5) above.

(7) Prior to the issue of a receipt in Form No. 1 by the cashier of a divisional office from his receipt book, the divisional accountant should sign the receipt and initial its counterfoil, as a token of his check that the amounts have been entered in the cash book.

(8) Payments by cheques shall not be accepted by officers who do not maintain cash books. Receipt books kept by such officers shall be checked and initialled by the Subdivisional Officers monthly at headquarters and whenever they visit an out-station.

Burdwan Division—Chinsura.

No. 392L.S.-G.—28th February 1931.—It it hereby notified for general information that, under section 13 of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (Bengal Act V of 1919), read with rule 36 of the rules for the election and appointment of members of union boards, etc., Ahmad Hafizal Kabir has been appointed by the District Magistrate of Hooghly to be a member of the Mandaran union board in police-station Goghat in the Arambagh subdivision of the district of Hooghly, vice Choudhury Monamal Haque, deceased.

No. 651J.G. — 28th February 1931.—In accordance with the provisions of rule 63 (2), Chapter IV of the Bengal Jail Code, I hereby re-appoint Rai Mohendra Chandra Lahiri Bahadur and Babu Purna Chandra Chatterjee to be the non-official visitors of the Serampore subsidiary jail in the district of Hooghly for a period of two years, with effect from the 20th March 1931.

Chinsura, the 2nd March 1931.

Read the report of the Circle Officer, dated the 1st February 1931, on the work of the President of the Uluberia union board; also the district board's resolution No. 331, dated the 28th February 1931, and the District Magistrate's letter No. 161C., dated the 1st March 1931.

I am satisfied that the union board has abused its powers. Its heavy expenditure on cinders for road repairs was ill-advised, and it seems doubtful if the board obtained full value for its expenditure, and there has undoubtedly been a waste of public funds in connection with the repairs of Fuleswar Mussalmanpara Road and Jagannathpur Road, while an excessive amount was paid for the excavation of a well at Jagannathpur. Moreover there is reason for believing that the President is using his influence to prevent the realization of the chaukidari tax by a tahsildar.

I am of opinion that there is likely to be an improvement in the working of the board, if the President Babu Probodh Chandra Sarkar is removed from his office both as President and member of the board, and accordingly remove him from these offices from the date hereof in exercise of the powers vested in me under sub-section (l) of section 56 of the Village Self-Government Act, 1919.

Orders and Notifications by the Government of India republished for general information.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

POLITICAL.

New Delhi, the 5th March 1931.

No. S.-481-Poll.—The following statement by the Governor General in Council is published for general information:—

1. Consequent on the conversations that have taken place between His Excellency the Viceroy and Mr. Gandhi, it has been arranged that the civil disobedience movement be discontinued, and that, with the approval of His Majesty's Government, certain action be taken by the Government of India and local Governments.

2. As regards constitutional questions, the scope of future discussion is stated, with the assent of His Majesty's Government, to be with the object of considering further the scheme for the constitutional Government of India discussed at the Round Table Conference. Of the scheme there outlined, Federation is an essential part; so also are Indian responsibility and reservations or safeguards in the interests of India, for such matters as, for instance, defence; external affairs; the position of minorities; the financial credit of India, and the discharge of obligations.

3. In pursuance of the statement made by the Prime Minister in his announcement of the 19th of January 1931, steps will be taken for the participation of the representatives of the Congress in the further discussions that are to take place on the scheme of constitutional reform.

4. The settlement relates to activities directly connected with the civil disobedience movement.

5. Civil disobedience will be effectively discontinued and reciprocal action will be taken by Government. The effective discontinuance of the civil disobedience movement means the effective discontinuance of all activities in furtherance thereof, by whatever methods pursued and, in particular, the following:—

(1) The organised defiance of the provisions of any law.

(2) The movement for the non-payment of land revenue and other legal dues.

(3) The publication of news-sheets in support of the civil disobedience movement.

(4) Attempts to influence civil and military servants or village officials against Government or to persuade them to resign their posts.

6. As regards the boycott of foreign goods, there are two issues involved, firstly, the character of the boycott and secondly, the methods employed in giving effect to it. The position of Government is as follows. They approve of the encouragement of Indian industries as part of the economic and industrial movement designed to improve the material condition of India, and they have no desire to discourage methods of propaganda, persuasion or advertisement pursued with this object in view, which do not interfere with the freedom of action of individuals, or are not prejudicial to the maintenance of law and order. But the boycott of non-

Indian goods (except of cloth which has been applied to all foreign cloth) has been directed during the civil disobedience movement chiefly, if not exclusively, against British goods, and in regard to these it has been admittedly employed in order to exert pressure for political ends.

It is accepted that a boycott of this character, and organised for this purpose, will not be consistent with the participation of representatives of the Congress in a frank and friendly discussion of constitutional questions between representatives of British India, of the Indian States, and of His Majesty's Government and political parties in England, which the settlement is intended to secure. It is, therefore, agreed that the discontinuance of the civil disobedience movement connotes the definite discontinuance of the employment of the boycott of British commodities as a political weapon and that, in consequence, those who have given up, during a time of political excitement, the sale or purchase of British goods must be left free without any form of restraint to change their attitude if they so desire.

7. In regard to the methods employed in furtherance of the replacement of non-Indian by Indian goods, or against the consumption of intoxicating liquor and drugs, resort will not be had to methods coming within the category of picketing, except within the limits permitted by the ordinary law. Such picketing shall be unaggressive and it shall not involve coercion, intimidation, restraint, hostile demonstration, obstruction to the public, or any offence under the ordinary law. If and when any of these methods is employed in any place, the practice of picketing in that place will be suspended.

8. Mr. Gandhi has drawn the attention of Government to specific allegations against the conduct of the police, and represented the desirability of a public enquiry into them. In present circumstances Government see great difficulty in this course and feel that it must inevitably lead to charges and counter-charges, and so militate against the re-establishment of peace. Having regard to these considerations, Mr. Gandhi agreed not to press the matter.

9. The action that Government will take on the discontinuance of the civil disobedience movement is stated in the following paragraphs.

10. Ordinances promulgated in connection with the civil disobedience movement will be withdrawn.

Ordinance No. 1 of 1931 relating to the terrorist movement does not come within the scope of the provision.

11. Notifications declaring associations unlawful under the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1908 will be withdrawn, provided that the notifications were made in connection with the civil disobedience movement.

The notifications recently issued by the Burma Government under the Criminal Law Amendment Act do not come within the scope of this provision.

12. (i) Pending prosecutions will be withdrawn if they have been filed in connection with the civil disobedience movement and relate to offences which do not involve violence, other than technical violence, or incitement to such violence.

(ii) The same principles will apply to proceedings under the security provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code.

(iii) Where a local Government has moved any High Court or has initiated proceedings under the Legal Practitioners' Act in regard to the conduct of legal practitioners in connection with the civil disobedience movement, it will make application to the Court concerned for permission to withdraw such proceedings, provided that the alleged conduct of the persons concerned does not relate to violence or incitement to violence.

(iv) Prosecutions, if any, against soldiers and police involving disobedience of orders will not come within the scope of this provision.

13. (i) Those prisoners will be released who are undergoing imprisonment in connection with the civil disobedience movement for offences which did not involve violence, other than technical violence, or incitement to such violence.

(ii) If any prisoner who comes within the scope of (i) above has been also sentenced for a jail offence, not involving violence, other than technical violence, or incitement to such violence, the latter sentence also will be remitted, or if a prosecution relating to an offence of this character is pending against such a prisoner, it will be withdrawn.

(iii) Soldiers and police convicted of offences involving disobedience of orders—in the very few cases that have occurred—will not come within the scope of the amnesty.

14. Fines which have not been realised will be remitted. Where an order for the forfeiture of security has been made under the security provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, and the security has not been realised, it will be similarly remitted.

Fines which have been realised and securities forfeited and realised under any law will not be returned.

15. Additional police imposed in connection with the civil disobedience movement at the expense of the inhabitants of a particular area will be withdrawn at the discretion of local Governments. Local Governments will not refund any money, not in excess of the actual cost, that has been realised, but they will remit any sum that has not been realised.

16. (a) Moveable property, which is not an illegal possession, and which has been seized in connection with the civil disobedience movement, under the Ordinances or the provisions of the Criminal Law, will be returned, if it is still in the possession of Government.

(b) Moveable property, forfeited or attached in connection with the realisation of land revenue or other dues, will be returned, unless the Collector of the district has reason to believe that the defaulter will contumaciously refuse to pay the dues recoverable from him within a reasonable period. In deciding what is a reasonable period, special regard will be paid to cases in which the defaulters, whfle willing to pay, genuinely require time for the purpose, and if necessary, the revenues will be suspended in accordance with the ordinary principles of land revenue administration.

(c) Compensation will not be given for deterioration.

(d) Where moveable property has been sold or otherwise finally disposed of by Government, compensation will not be given and the sale proceeds will not be returned, except in so far as they are in excess of the legal dues for which the property may have been sold.

(e) It will be open to any person to seek any legal remedy he may have on the ground that the attachment or seizure of property was not in accordance with the law.

17. (a) Immoveable property of which possession has been taken under Ordinance IX of 1930 will be returned in accordance with the provisions of the Ordinance.

(b) Land and other immoveable property in the possession of Government, which has been forfeited or attached in connection with the realisation of land revenue or other dues, will be returned unless the Collector of the district has reason to believe that the defaulter will contumaciously refuse to pay the dues recoverable from him within a reasonable period. In deciding what is a reasonable period, special regard will be paid to cases in which the defaulter, while willing to pay, genuinely requires time for the purpose, and if necessary, the revenues will be suspended in accordance with the ordinary principles of land revenue administration.

(c) Where immoveable property has been sold to third parties, the transaction must be regarded as final, so far as Government are concerned.

Note.—Mr. Gandhi has represented to Government that according to his information and belief some, at least, of these sales have been unlawful and unjust. Government on the information before them cannot accept this contention.

(d) It will be open to any person to seek any legal remedy he may have on the ground that the seizure or attachment of property was not in accordance with the law.

18. Government believe that there have been very few cases in which the realization of dues has not been made in accordance with the provisions of the law. In order to meet such cases, if any, local Governments will issue instructions to District Officers to have prompt enquiry made into any specific complaint of this nature, and to give redress without delay if illegality is established.

19. Where the posts rendered vacant by resignations have been permanently filled, Government will not be able to reinstate the late incumbents. Other cases of resignation will be considered on their merits by local Governments who will pursue a liberal policy in regard to the reappointment of Government servants and village officials who apply for reinstatement.

20. Government are unable to condone breaches of the existing law relating to the salt administration, nor are they able, in the present financial conditions of the country, to make substantial modifications in the Salt Acts.

For the sake however of giving relief to certain of the poorer classes, they are prepared to extend their administrative provisions, on lines already prevailing in certain places, in order to permit local residents in villages, immediately adjoining areas where salt can be collected or made, to collect or make salt for domestic consumption or sale within such villages, but not for sale to, or trading with, individuals living outside them.

21. In the event of Congress failing to give full effect to the obligations of this settlement, Government will take such action as may, in consequence, become necessary for the protection of the public and individuals and the due observance of law and order.

List of elephants available for sale in Angul Khedda.

Serial No.	Name of Elephant.	Sex.	Year of capture.	Height.	Present approximate age.	Price.	Remarks.
					Years.	Rs.
1	Jang Bahadur ..	Makhna ..	1898	8′—6″ ..	40	2,500	A good elephant for Shikar, very useful during Khedda Operations.
2	Bankim Bahadur ..	Tusker ..	1898	8′—5″ ..	40	2,000	Has right hind leg defective—but this does not affect his working, is very strong and most excellent for Khedda Operations. Very good tusks.
3	Chanchal Peary ..	Female ..	1927	8′—0″	35	1,000	Has left fore foot stiff owing to gun accident, slow, very good for carrying goods, was of assistance at Khedda.
4	Eileen	Female ..	1927	7′—6″ ..	30	2,500	Fast walker—inclined to shy slightly.
5	Sundergaj ..	Tusker ..	1930	8′—6″ ..	25	4,000	Very good elephant of "Koomerah" breed, showy, strong, will turn out a good riding elephant. None like it in Orissa.
6	Sultan Bahadur ..	Tusker ..	1930	6′—8″ ..	10	2,500	A very good animal, will turn out a good riding elephant.
7	Akbar	Tusker ..	1930	6′—7″ ..	10	2,500	Ditto.
8	Nurjahan ..	Female ..	1930	6′—2″ ..	8	2,200	A very good elephant, docile, will be a very good riding elephant, easy going. Will pair with "Sultan Bahadur."

NOTE :—The elephants offered for sale are of the well-known Angul stock, and "Koomerah-band" species. They have short legs, especially hind legs, but heavy body with big girth.

The head is massive and carried high, the trunk is thick set with well developed bump, the neck is short and deep, the chest wide. The back is broad, without too prominent a spinal ridge and slopes gently backward from the withers. The hind quarters are full, the tail set on low down with a full brush.

They have each eighteen white toe nails. These "Koomerah-band" species are not tall lanky animals like the "Meergah-band" species, but on account of their massive bodies may when kneeling down be considerably higher to climb.

No. 5 is locally known as "Golab Talu" species and is a Kalam Donta, i.e., has straight, short and thick tusks which will grow much larger being an young animal. All these tuskers are of the same class.

A "Koomerah-band" elephant is certain to be a good animal—they are generally hardy, kindly, and wise. This breed is scarce.

The massive bodies of these animals offered give them altogether a handsome appearance especially when they stride out with easy movement. All are trained and quiet.

Deputy Commissioner, Angul.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 477L.—3rd March, 1931.—In pursuance of the provisions of rule 20 of the Bengal Legislative Council Rules, 1920, the following Bill which was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 16th February, 1931, is hereby published for general information together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto:—

THE BENGAL AGRICULTURAL AND SANITARY IMPROVEMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1931.

A

to amend the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Act, 1920.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Act, 1920, in the manner hereinafter appearing; Ben. Act VI of 1920.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement (Amendment) Act, 1931.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, direct.

Amendment of Section 15. 2. In section 15 of the Bengal Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Act of 1920, the sub-section (1) shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This is a very short amendment to remove a great obstacle regarding the important work to be done by the Agricultural and Sanitary Improvement Act of 1920. The poor agricultural people approach Government for the excavation of canals under this Act for bringing their marshy water-logged fallow lands under cultivation. The sub-section (1) of section 15 of this Act says that an applicant for such a work shall be required, before the execution of the work is undertaken, to deposit or to give security for, the cost of the work or a portion thereof, and all proceedings under this Act shall be stayed until such requisition is complied with. It has been found by experience that the Collector generally directs the applicant to deposit a heavy amount under the said sub-section and the applicant fails to deposit such an amount owing to his poverty. As there is a clear provision under section 18 of this Act, that after the completion of the work, the total cost shall be realised from the applicant and other persons or authorities concerned, it is unnecessary and improper to compel the applicant, who may be moved by considerations of public interest in making the application, to deposit such money especially as he is bound to pay subsequently a share of the total cost in proportion to the benefited area of his land.

The necessity of this short amendment is very great in view of the fact that its result will be of a far-reaching and beneficial character in bringing under cultivation large areas of marshy water-logged low lands lying fallow for centuries together. In these days of extreme economic crisis it is the paramount duty of Government to give all sorts of facilities in the way of agricultural improvement wherever possible. For this purpose it has become imperative to abolish the sub-section (1) of section 15 of this Act. In that case Government will not really incur any loss. Government will be required to undertake and finish the work at their own cost first and then to realise the total cost in due proportion from all the persons or authorities concerned as provided by section 18 of the Act, just as the cadastral survey operations in a district are first finished at Government's own cost and then this cost is realised afterwards from the tenants or other persons concerned. Under these circumstances I hope that the Council will accept the proposed amendment for the welfare of the poor, helpless and dying cultivators of Bengal.

further to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, in the manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Bengal Act III of 1884.

Short title and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Municipal (Amendment) Act, 1931.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, direct.

Amendment of section 131 (f). (4) In sub-section (f) of section 131 after "carriages" insert "(other than motor-cars, tricycles or bicycles)."

Amendment of Schedule V. (5) The Fifth Schedule of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, shall be substituted as follows :—

The Fifth Schedule.

(See Sections 86 and 131.)

Tax on carriages, and on horses and other animals.

	Per half year. Rs.	A.
(1) One every 4-wheeled carriage propelled by mechanical power having more than four cylinders or having four cylinders with a bore of 80 millimetres or more	24	0
(2) On every 4-wheeled carriage propelled by mechanical power having more than four cylinders or having four cylinders with a bore of less than 80 millimetres	18	0

(4) On every jinrickshaw	2	0
(5) On every 4-wheeled carriage drawn by two horses	6	0
(6) On every 4-wheeled carriage drawn by one horse or a pair of ponies under thirteen hands	4	8
(7) On every 2-wheeled carriage ..	3	0
(8) On every horse	3	0
(9) On every pony under thirteen hands and on every mule and donkey or swine	1	8
(10) On every elephant	9	0
(11) On every camel	4	0
(12) On every 4-wheeled carriage drawn by one pony under thirteen hands	3	0
(13) On every dog	1	0

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill is mainly intended to provide for the levy of tax on motor-vehicles. When the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, was enacted, carriages propelled by mechanical power had not been thought of by the legislators. Within the last half a century since then, great changes have taken place in the means of locomotion and transit facilities by the aid of mechanical power. The amendment of the Schedule of taxes in question has, therefore, become necessary to suit the changing conditions specially as the problem of roads has become acute in most of the municipalities of Bengal owing to abnormal increase in heavy motor-vehicles' traffic requiring more frequent repairs to roads without any compensating income derivable from those vehicles which were responsible for the early breakdown of the roads.

" On the North—Balaram Bose Ghat Road.

On the South—Nepal Bhattacharyyas Street.

On the East—Russa Road (South).

On the West—Tolly's Nullah. "

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is intended to remove a long-standing grievance of the people of Kalighat in the matter of representation in the Corporation of Calcutta. Owing to the numerical strength of voters in the Bhowanipur area, residents other than that of Bhowanipur had little chance of being returned as Councillor. This would be evident from the result of successive elections. In fact, the chance of success in the Polls being remote, few residents of Kalighat came forward to risk defeat in the elections. A man conversant with local needs would have helped a good deal in the betterment of the sanitary condition of the locality. Some of its lanes, bye-lanes, bustees and drains clearly indicated how it has been relegated to the cold shade of neglect and indifference. This unsatisfactory state of things was to a certain extent due to want of proper representation of Kalighat in the Corporation of Calcutta. Its growing importance justified its treatment as a separate unit. Moreover, the area of Ward 22 was a very large one for which it was represented by three Councillors. In this Bill, I propose to take out of Ward 22, the Kalighat area and create a separate Ward for it, numbered as Ward 22A. As to the number of Councillors, I propose to allot two Councillors to Ward 22 and one Councillor to Ward 22A. I hope that the proposed amendment will help to remove a rather legitimate grievance of the ratepayers of Kalighat, at whose instance this Bill is being introduced in the Council.

8. (1) A meeting of the Board shall be convened on such date as may be fixed by the Chairman, not less than fifteen days after the circulation of the statement referred to in section 7, for settling a Provincial Scheme determining the total area of land which should be sown with jute in the ensuing year.

(2) At this meeting the Board shall, after considering the statement of prospects referred to in section 7, consider what area of land in the Presidency shall be cultivated with jute in the ensuing year, and in what proportion the area under cultivation in the previous year should be increased or decreased, and shall embody their decision in a scheme showing how the increase or reduction in the area of land under jute in the Presidency should be distributed.

(3) In preparing the Scheme the Board shall have power to determine different ratios for increase or decrease with reference to different districts and also with reference to different qualities and varieties of jute.

Publication of the Scheme.

9. The Provincial Scheme framed by the Board under the last preceding section shall forthwith be published in the manner prescribed both in English and Bengali and copies of the Scheme shall forthwith be circulated to all District Boards and Union Boards of the Presidency, and, where there are no Union Boards, to Village Jute Boards constituted under this Act, together with a requisition calling upon each Union Board to increase or reduce the area of land cultivated with Jute within its jurisdiction in the ratio provided by the Provincial Scheme.

Copies of the Scheme shall also be circulated to recognised associations.

Objections to the Provincial Scheme.

10. Any District Board, Union Board or recognised association may, by a petition setting forth the grounds of their objections to the Provincial Scheme, apply to the Board to revise the Provincial Scheme after it is published.

Every such petition received within three weeks of the publication of the scheme shall be considered by the Board, and the Board may, after such consideration, reject the petition or make such modifications in the scheme as they think fit.

CHAPTER IV.

Duties of Union Boards and Village Schemes.

Register of Jute lands.

11. Every Union Board shall maintain a register of jute lands within the Union, in the prescribed form, and shall from time to time make such corrections in the register as may be necessary.

Every Union Board shall also cause to have the jute lands marked on a copy of the cadastral survey map of the Union which shall be kept by it.

A copy of the register of jute lands shall be submitted by every Union Board within the month of April to the District Agricultural Officer who shall keep a complete file of such registers for the whole district in the manner prescribed.

Invitation of offers from cultivators.

12. On receipt of a requisition from the Board under section 9 or, where the Provincial Scheme has been amended by the Board under section 10, on receipt of such amended requisition, every Union Board shall notify to all cultivators within the Union the total increase or reduction of Jute lands within the Union required in order to comply with the requisition of the Board and shall invite offers from cultivators within the Union individually to increase or decrease the area cultivated by each with a view to comply with such requisition.

Village scheme.

13. If the offers received from the cultivators are adequate for the purpose of reducing or increasing the area under jute to the extent required, the Union Board shall accept the offers and frame a village scheme accordingly.

If the offers received are not adequate to comply with the requisition of the Board, the Union Board shall, after consideration of the offers, prepare a scheme of lands to be cultivated with jute in the ensuing year so as to bring the total area into conformity with the requisition of the Board :

Provided that, in preparing a scheme of areas to be cultivated with jute, if any increase or reduction of the area cultivated in the previous year is necessary, the Board shall, unless the scheme is based on voluntary offers, distribute the requisite increase or decrease of area among all the cultivators of jute in the same proportion, except where, in the opinion of the Board, such proportionate increase or decrease in the case of any cultivator cannot be made consistently with economic cultivation :

Provided also, that in framing such scheme the Union Board may consult the District Agricultural Officer, who shall, on the requisition of the Union Board, give it his opinion on the scheme proposed by the Union Board.

Appeal against village scheme.

14. (1) Any person aggrieved by a village scheme framed by the Union Board may within fifteen days from the publication of the scheme appeal to the Director of Agriculture, stating fully the grounds for objection to the scheme.

(2) The Director on receiving such an appeal shall forthwith send a copy of it to the Union Board and the District Agricultural Officer for report and after receiving such report he may either summarily reject the petition of appeal or refer it for decision to an officer not below the rank of a Superintendent in the Department of Agriculture.

(3) The officer to whom an appeal is referred under the last foregoing clause shall investigate the question raised on the spot and, after making such enquiry as he thinks fit, he may either confirm or modify the scheme framed by Union Board :

Provided that the scheme framed by such officer in modification of the scheme shall be in conformity with the requisition of the Board.

Revision of Jute register and issue of licences.

15. When a scheme has been framed by a Union Board, and, if there is an appeal, when a decision has been given on appeal, the Union Board shall revise the Jute register, take such steps as may be prescribed to give effect to the village scheme.

Village Jute Boards.

16. In areas where there are no Union Boards the function hereby assigned to Union Boards shall be exercised by the Village Jute Boards constituted by the Local Government for those areas.

CHAPTER V.

Miscellaneous.

Publication of Jute prices.

17. (1) The Director of Agriculture shall from time to time, and as often as may be necessary, prepare for publication a

The Bengal Jute Bill (II), 1930.

(Chapter V.—Miscellaneous—Clauses 18, 19.)

detailed statement of jute prices in the market, as well as of the prospect of the market in the future, and despatch such statements to Union Boards by post or by telegraph as he deems fit.

(2) Every Union Board shall, on receiving a statement under the preceding section, cause it to be hung up on a notice board in the office of the Union Board and also notify the facts contained therein in such manner as the Board thinks fit.

Other functions of the Board.

18. No action shall be taken by the Government with regard to any matter directly or indirectly affecting the cultivation or marketing of jute or for the organisation of scientific or economic researches on jute except on the advice of the Board and the Government may require the Board to give its advice on any question affecting agriculture in the Presidency.

Power of framing rules.

19. The Local Government may, with the advice of the Board from time to time, make rules consistent with the provisions of this Act and in particular, without prejudice to the generality of the above provision, may make rules—

(1) prescribing the procedure at meetings of the Board :

(2) prescribing the form of the register of jute lands to be maintained by Union Boards :

(3) prescribing the mode of the publication of provincial and village schemes and Union Boards :

(4) for constituting Village Jute Boards in areas where there are no Union Boards and prescribing their constitution and functions :

(5) for providing the procedure to be adopted by Union Boards to give effect to their village schemes.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Jute is the most important source of the wealth of the Presidency, and it is one in respect of which Bengal enjoys a practical monopoly in the world.

Nevertheless the price of jute has, within recent years, fallen to a level at which it does not even suffice to pay the cost of its production. The result has been disastrous to the people notably to the people of Eastern Bengal. Year after year the jute producing districts have been suffering a heavy loss by the cultivation of an article which, with a little organisation, could make the people of all grades prosperous.

One of the chief causes of the fall in the price of jute has been production in excess of the world demand. And this again is due to the wholly disorganised condition of the growers of jute and the absence of any attempt on their part to adjust the crop to the world demand so that it might fetch a fair price.

The present position is that in a normal season the quantity of jute produced is greatly in excess of the world demand. And the surplus stock of jute is increasing year by year. The situation has become one of such urgent importance to the people of Bengal that to leave the prices to be adjusted by natural processes would mean disaster to the entire community.

Intervention of the public authorities to prevent the disaster is therefore urgently called for. Having regard to the widespread area of production and the backwardness and illiteracy of the cultivators, there is no near prospect of their producing their own organisation for dealing with the situation. This Bill therefore seeks to provide an organisation by which the production of jute may be so adjusted as to maintain as high a price-level of jute as may safely be kept up. It is hardly necessary to add that if by this means jute-prices could be raised it would immediately lead to greater prosperity all round. An increase of each rupee per maund in the price of jute would bring approximately five crores of rupees to the people. And considering that jute prices could easily be raised by Rs. 8 per maund above the present prices without any apprehension of serious competition from other materials, a successful regulation of the jute crop may easily add about rupees forty crores to the wealth of the people.

Incidentally it might give relief to the finances of the province. For, in the event of a substantial increase in the price of jute as a result of regulation, it would be possible to impose a substantial tax in the shape of an excise duty or toll upon it which might bring a large revenue.

This Bill proposes to carry out the scheme of regulation of production through the agency of Union Boards. As the jute producing districts have mostly been covered by Union Boards, they furnish a useful instrument for the carrying out of the work.

The framing of a provincial scheme for regulation of cultivation of jute is entrusted to a Central Board, which will be necessary. The programme of cultivation cannot be settled piecemeal. It must be done on a provincial scale and by persons competent to take account of the necessary factors and determine the amount required to be produced with reference to the world demand.

The constitution of the Central Board has been framed so as to secure representation on it of all the various interests and also to provide for the representation of those officers of the Government whose function it may be to deal with various matters connected with it. This it is hoped will prevent circumlocution and enable the board to deal directly with Union Boards without passing through any further official channels.

Provision has been made for a revision both of the village and of the provincial scheme, so that any errors due to want of consideration of relevant facts may be remedied. At the same time care has been taken that the decision should be promptly and finally made without interminable appeals and reviews.

In the framing of a village scheme an option has been provided for voluntary compliance by the cultivators with the requisition of the Central Jute Board. The Union Board will frame a scheme of its own only when the voluntary offers of the villagers individually are not adequate to satisfy the requisition of the Central Board.

Both in the choice of the instruments by which the scheme is worked and in the procedure care has been taken to see that the regulation of jute cultivation is done by the representatives of the people concerned and not by a strictly official agency.

Although I am satisfied that in the long run, to secure the compliance of villagers to the village scheme, some measure of compulsion will be necessary, no such provision has been embodied in the present Bill, and it is contemplated that the Government will make rules providing a procedure for securing voluntary compliance of the cultivators of the village.

The Bill only seeks to secure a regulation of the total area of land cultivated with jute. The total quantity of jute produced depends on other factors than the area cultivated. Climatic influences, seeds selection and other factors are also important. These factors are not capable of regulation. But having regard to the fact that the outturn of jute per acre has varied within narrow limits owing to extraneous causes, the regulation of the area cultivated with due regard to the prospects of the market is nevertheless expected to furnish a sufficient security against over-production as well as against undue restriction to the detriment of the people's interests.

There are other factors to consider besides restriction of production and important reforms will have to be carried out in the system of marketing jute before the full benefit of its value can be secured to cultivators. That is a matter which must be dealt with in future and in respect of which the Jute Board when constituted under this Act will be able to give competent advice.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The provisions of the Calcutta Municipal Act which gave the Mussalmans the right of electing their representatives on the Corporation by separate Muhammadan electorates, will cease to operate at the next general election. It is proposed in this Bill to make those provisions permanently operative. At the time the Bill was passed it was hoped that after three general elections and the administration of the Corporation for 9 years, the relation between the various communities, and particularly between the Hindus and Mussalmans, will be so improved that there would be no necessity for separate electorates. But unfortunately those hopes have not been realized. On the other hand the situation has grown from bad to worse. The administration of the Corporation has further proved that one section of the community has got an absolute majority in the Corporation, and that majority has been used to the detriment of the interest of the other communities. The efficiency of the administration has also greatly suffered. For all these reasons it is necessary in the interest of this city that the constitution should be modified. As proposed in this Bill the Hindus will have the largest representation on the Corporation and will be almost in a majority. Under the Act of 1923 the Mussalmans were poorly represented on the Corporation. It is now proposed to give them adequate and proper representation commensurate with their numerical strength and the importance of the community in the city. It is further proposed to give the Anglo-Indians representation by election instead of nomination. Indian Christians, Jews and other small minorities will have to be represented by nominations as now.

By-laws made under this section shall have the force of law when confirmed by the Commissioner and published in such manner and for such time as the Commissioner may direct."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It is nearly a decade since the Bengal Village Self-Government Act (Bengal Act No. V of 1919) came into force and Union Boards were established in pursuance of the provisions of the said Act. During the period that the Act has been in operation, difficulties have been experienced in the actual working of some of its sections. The present Bill is intended to remove the disabilities by amending those sections and by the addition of certain new provisions.

2. There is no provision in the Village Self-Government Act for the Union Board to grant leave to its President or Vice-President. This defect often creates difficulties in administration when the President is ill or is away from the Union for some time. A new section has, therefore, been inserted on the lines of section 26A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 and section 26B of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, giving power to the Union Board to grant such leave and to elect a substitute.

3. Sections 12 (1) (a) and 16 (1) (i) of the Act invest the District Board with certain extraordinary powers to remove any member and President of a Union Board if they are convicted of non-bailable offences. It is not clear from these sections whether a member or a President is removable by reason of his being convicted of such an offence previous to his election or appointment as such. The above sections are proposed to be so amended as to remove the existing ambiguity. It has also been suggested that the offence committed should involve moral turpitude.

4. Another matter of outstanding importance to Union Boards is the establishment of dispensaries. Section 32 of the Village Self-Government Act empowers the Union Boards to establish dispensaries subject to the rules framed under section 101. But rule 3 of the rules made under that section limits the appointment of doctors to registered medical practitioners only, which means that no Union Board can entertain the services of a medical officer in respect of any dispensary following a system of treatment other than allopathic. It is in order to obviate this difficulty that a provision has been inserted in section 32 enabling the Union Boards to establish homœopathic, Ayurvedic and Unani dispensaries.

This will at the same time remove the present anomaly and be in line with the Government Notification No. 1504 Medl., dated the 30th May, 1921, in which the District Boards have been authorised to establish and maintain dispensaries following systems of medicines other than allopathic. The principle underlying the circular being equally applicable to Union Boards, there is no reason why they should not be granted a similar privilege.

5. It is doubtful whether under section 26 of the Village Self-Government Act, Union Boards are competent to undertake veterinary work for the treatment, feeding, housing and the breeding of cattle. There is also no provision in the Act for two or more Union Boards to combine in order to carry out any of the purposes of the Act for the common benefit of the people where it is not possible for any single Union Board to incur expenditure out of its own resources. A new section has been inserted to make good this omission.

6. It has been found by experience that section 58 of the Act is unworkable so far as the District Board is concerned. In exercise of the powers conferred by this section, the District Board may suspend the execution of " any order or resolution of a Union Board or the doing of an act, which is about to be done, or is being done, by such Union Board " if the same " is likely to cause injury or annoyance to the public or to any class or body of persons, or to lead to a breach of the peace." If the District Board is to take action under this section by adopting the usual routine procedure, viz., passing a formal resolution at a meeting convened after giving due notice to the members, the purpose of the section may be totally frustrated. It is, therefore, essential that the powers should vest in the Chairman in order to ensure prompt action in urgent cases subject, of course, to the approval of the District Board.

7. The absence of any provision for the removal of and punishment for encroachment upon immovable property in the possession of the Union Boards has been causing great difficulties in village administration. It is thus necessary that power should be taken to deal with such offences with a view to their speedy and effective disposal.

8. Questions of a controversial nature which may delay the passage of the Bill have been scrupulously avoided. As the amendments suggested are considered essential in the interest of village self-government, it is hoped that the Bill will be passed in the next session of the Legislative Council without reference to a Select Committee.

"Provided that this section shall, from the date of commencement of the Bengal Municipal (Amendment) Act, 1931, be deemed to be extended to any Municipality in which a sewerage system is in working order without being expressly extended thereto."

Amendment of section 247.

5. In section 247 of the said Act for the words "the last preceding section" the words, figures, and letters "sections 244, 224-IA, 246 or 332" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 271.

6. In section 271 of the said Act, after the figures "224" the figures and letter "224-IA" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 350.

7. In section 350 of the said Act for clause (c) the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"(c) regulating—

(i) the disposal of sewage, offensive matter, carcasses of animals and rubbish, and the management, construction and maintenance of privies, drains, urinals, cess-pools, and sewers;

(ii) the material, size, laying, position, tapping, ventilation, flushing, flooring of all privies, drains, urinals connected or otherwise, and the provision of all appurtenances thereto;

(iii) the fees to be charged for the proper connection of privies, drains and urinals with an underground sewerage system where an underground sewerage system is available for such connection."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 350 (c) of the Bengal Municipal Act III of 1884 enables Municipalities to frame rules inter alia for the management of privies and drains. With the introduction of sewerage systems in some of the Municipalities, it is necessary that such Municipalities should frame bye-laws for regulating the construction and maintenance of privies, urinals, and drains. Section 350 (c) of the Bengal Municipal Act III of 1884 is interrelated with section 241. It is necessary for simplifying legal procedure that the provisions of section 241 of the Act, as well as of Parts VI and IX should be deemed to be automatically extended to Municipalities, where a sewerage system is present, and where the proposed bye-laws are intended to be worked. Further, as in a large number of cases, urgent improvements to privies are being held up because of lack of means on the part of the owners thereof, and as this difficulty will be accentuated if connected privies are to be provided, the proposed amendment of section 247 will enable Municipalities to execute the work departmentally and realise the expenses in instalments, or to pay a portion of the departmental expenses out of the municipal fund. The proposed additional section 224-IA will enable action to be taken for the provision of connected privies or conversion of existing service privies into connected privies, where such provision or conversion is, in the opinion of the Commissioners, necessary for sanitary reasons. Section 224 of the present Act does not contemplate action in this direction.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 4891L.—3rd March, 1931.—In pursuance of the provisions of rule 20 of the Bengal Legislative Council Rules, 1920, the following Bill which was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 16th February, 1931, is hereby published for general information together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto:—

THE BENGAL LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1931.

A

BILL

further to amend the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, 1885.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, 1885, in the manner hereinafter appearing: Bengal Act III of 1885.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called The Bengal Local Self-Government (Amendment) Act, 1931.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, direct.

New section 64B. 2. After section 64A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, 1885, the following section shall be inserted:—

"64B. The District Board may, subject to any rules made by the Local Government under this Act, make grants-in-aid to public libraries and reading rooms situated within the area under the authority of the District Board."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill is intended to authorise the District Boards to provide for grants-in-aid to the public libraries and reading rooms within their jurisdiction. The Local Self-Government Act, as it stands to-day, does not make any provision for grants-in-aid to public libraries or reading rooms which are important factors in promoting adult education. The public libraries in rural areas are often refused grants by the District Boards on the ground that there was no provision in the law authorising them to incur expenditure on that head. In reply to my unstarred Question No. 82 on the subject at the session of the Council held on 14th August, 1930, the Secretary to the Local Self-Government Department was pleased to state that " Objection in audit to grants to libraries on these grounds has been noticed " and that " the point will be noted for consideration among the proposed amendments of the Acts in question," but he " could not give any forecast when such legislation will be undertaken." As there was no certainty of the Government undertaking such legislation within a measurable distance of time and as the matter was an important one affecting a large section of the people interested in adult education, I have thought fit to introduce this short Bill to remove a legitimate popular grievance. For the development of the nation, organisation of the people on a platform of knowledge is essential. It is not enough that knowledge should be imparted to the younger generation in schools and colleges ; knowledge must be made a real force operating daily on the life and thought of every member of the community, enlarging his outlook and making him conscious of his possibilities in life. It is a work which public libraries can undertake, and which has actually been undertaken by public libraries in other countries with splendid results. It is, therefore, hoped that the Council will extend its support to the Bill.

(1) " Brahmini bull " means a bull dedicated to the public by a Hindu in a funeral or other religious or ceremonial occasion ;

(2) " epizootic disease " means diseases which come to one part of the country from another which affect a great many animals at the same time and behave as epidemic diseases do in human subjects ;

(3) " Khodai bull " means a bull dedicated to the public by a Muhammadan in any religious, ceremonial or other occasion ;

(4) " Cattle " means and includes a cow, heifer, bull, bullock, calf, he-buffalo, she-buffalo, and buffalo-calf ;

(5) " local authority " means any authority legally entitled to the control or management of any local or Municipal fund ;

(6) " notification " means a notification published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Penalty for knowingly selling cattle having epizootic disease.

Penalty for killing or poisoning, etc., of Brahmini or Khodai bulls.

Nothing in this section shall apply to a police officer above the rank of sub-inspector who on receipt of proper information and on his being satisfied that a Brahmini or Khodai bull is dangerous to a locality or to the residents of a locality, destroy the same, provided that he shall submit to the local authority concerned his reasons in writing for so doing within three days after the occurrence.

The Bengal Cattle Bill, 1931.

(Clauses 5—9.)

Maintenance of a minimum number of stud-bulls by a local authority.

5. (1) Every local authority shall maintain or cause to be maintained within its jurisdiction a minimum number of stud-bulls as may be prescribed by the Local Government and shall lend stud-bulls for service to the cattle of the locality under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by such authority in the rules made under this Act.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law it shall be lawful for such authority to allot a portion of its fund for the purpose of maintenance of such stud-bulls ; and the local authority shall allot for such purpose one-fourth of all monies received in the area within its jurisdiction under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871. I of 1871.

Power to local authority to take possession of Brahmini or Khodai bulls.

6. A local authority may, for the purpose of section 5, take possession of Brahmini or Khodai bulls. A register shall be maintained by a local authority of all bulls taken possession of by such authority under this section.

Grants to any person by local authority for the purchase and maintenance of stud-bulls.

7. It shall be lawful for a local authority to make suitable grant or grants to any person or persons from its funds for the purchase and maintenance of stud-bulls to be kept within the local limits of its jurisdiction and under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by such authority from time to time by rules made under this Act.

Power to local Government to fix the number of stud-bulls for a local authority.

8. The Local Government shall after consideration of the views of a local authority, by notification, fix the minimum number of stud-bulls to be maintained by such authority.

Power to make rules.

9. (1) A local authority may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules—

(a) prescribing the terms and conditions for lending any stud-bull for breeding purposes to any person or persons or other local authorities ;

(b) prescribing the terms and conditions of a grant under section 7 ;

(c) prescribing fees for services rendered by its stud-bulls and for the levy of such fees ;

(d) for the proper upkeep, maintenance and periodical inspection and medical examination of stud-bulls ; and

(e) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be posted up in a conspicuous position at the office of such local authority and in such other public places as that local authority may direct.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill intends in the main to make provision for the protection and maintenance of Brahmini bulls by local authorities. The need of adequate and suitable stud bulls is being keenly felt in the Province. The Brahmini and Khodai bulls which helped to serve the purpose of breeding have now become scarce, and the res nullius judgments of the Calcutta High Court reported in Indian Law Reports, Calcutta, Volume 17, page 852, goes to prove that the destruction and diversion to other purposes of such bulls can be carried on with impunity. There is no special provision in the Local Self-Government Acts enjoining the maintenance of stud-bulls by local bodies especially for breeding purposes. Provision has been made in this Bill for rectifying the existing defects in Legislature concerning cattle and cattle breeding.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 27th January, 1931:—

L. A. BILL No. 18 OF 1931.

A Bill to prohibit the export of Indian Cattle.

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove the easily preventible causes for the shortage of cattle stock and the reduction of the milk supply in British India; and whereas the overseas trade in cattle has substantially contributed to the said shortage of cattle stock and the said reduction of milk supply; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Cattle Export Prohibition Act, 19 .

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India.

(3) It shall come into force on the 19 .

Definition.

2. "Cattle" shall mean and include cows, bulls, bullocks and buffaloes as well as their calves.

Offences.

3. Whoever exports or carries coastwise cattle or carries such cattle by road, rail, water or air within British India for the purpose of such export or carrying coastwise, and whoever abets the commission of any of the said acts shall be guilty of an offence under this Act and shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine, or both.

Explanation.—It is not an offence under this Act to carry cattle in the manner aforesaid for the bona fide use of passengers or crew during a voyage or for the use of bona fide Indian troops abroad during military operations.

Forfeiture.

4. On conviction for an offence under this Act the cattle in respect of which the offence is committed shall be forfeited.

Offences to be cognisable and bailable.

5. All offences under this Act shall be cognisable and bailable and shall be triable in the manner prescribed for warrant cases by a Magistrate of the first class.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

India is mainly an agricultural country. Cattle are essential to the agriculturist, so is milk to the bulk of the population. Since the introduction of the export trade of cattle out of India the number of cattle has steadily declined. This has naturally raised the prices of cattle and milk. Consequently the agriculturist finds it increasingly difficult to purchase a sufficient number of cattle for his agricultural purposes. The scarcity of milk is not a less serious hardship upon the people in general, but its evil results have been most felt in the cases of infants, and invalids and lactating mothers. The great rise in infant mortality during recent years has been quite distressing. The object of this Bill is to combat these growing evils to some extent by penalising the export trade in cattle meat.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 27th January, 1931:—

L. A. BILL NO. 19 OF 1931.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XXXVIII of 1926.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Bar Councils (Amendment) Act, 193 .

(2) It extends to the same area to which the provisions of the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926, are or at any time hereafter become applicable. XXXVIII of 1926.

Amendment of section 2, Act XXXVIII of 1926.

2. In section 2 of the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926,— XXXVIII of 1926.

(i) the following new clause shall be inserted, namely:—

"(a) 'King's Counsel' means a person so appointed from among the legal practitioners in India"; and (ii) clauses (a) to (d) shall be renumbered as clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e), respectively.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

(1) Before the enactment of the Indian Bar Councils Act (XXXVIII of 1926) all superior legal practitioners in India were divided into two classes, Advocates and Vakils, the former being namely Barristers who formed a class apart, and ranked in seniority above the vakils. This privilege of the members of the English Bar in India was challenged in a Resolution moved in the First Assembly to which the Government gave a sympathetic assurance, and who later appointed a committee to report inter alia on the extent to which it may be desirable to remove existing distinctions enforced by Statute or practice between Barristers and Vakils; and to make recommendations.

Assembly Debates, dated 24th February, 1921, page 371.

(2) On the 1st February, 1924, the Committee drew up their Report, recommending the establishment of Bar Councils and making suggestions for the removal of all distinction between Advocates and Vakils, and suggested the institution of King's Counsel in India as a possible substitute for the then existing practice obtaining in some High Courts (e.g., Allahabad) of the enrolment of Vakils as Advocates. Referring to this practice, they said—"It may or may not be desirable to provide for the recognition of distinguished merit at the Bar by elevation to a higher grade of practitioners. This is a question which does not properly come within the terms of our enquiry. But if it is desirable, we consider that a more suitable form of recognition such as the grant of the rank of King's Counsel, could be devised than elevation to a grade which, while it may contain a higher average of outstanding talent, cannot possibly be regarded as exclusively composed of successive practitioners." (Section 16, page 117.)

Assembly Debates, Vol. VIII of 1926, page 372.

(3) A Bill constituting the Bar Councils was drafted and on the 26th August, 1926, the late Sir Alexander Muddiman moved for its consideration which I opposed. Later we compromised by deleting a clause, eleminating all distinctions between Barristers and Vakil-Advocates regarding their seniority to be reintroduced later after sounding the public opinion thereon.

Ib., pages 404, 405.

(4) As a result, on the 28th March, 1927, Sir Alexander Muddiman amended the clause and the Legislature passed it as Act XIII of 1927 which prescribed seniority amongst legal practitioners in the following order, namely:—

1. Advocate-General.
2. King's Counsel.
3. Barristers, ranking their seniority from the date of their call.
4. Advocates from the date of their admission.

(5) The inclusion of King's Counsel and giving them seniority over all Barristers was based on an assumption then made that some Indian Barristers would be granted English Silk and that failing, the Government of India would take steps to establish a Dominion Silk as is the practice even in the smallest of Crown Colonies, e.g., Ceylon and British Guinea.

Four years have since passed but that assumption has not been realized with the result that under the existing law English and colonial Barristers raised to the rank of King's Counsel though, it may be, much junior in seniority and standing to their confrerés in India have become entitled to rank above them and the latter are penalized by the sole fact of their having practised in India. This is an anomaly never contemplated by the framers of the Act.

(6) It is learnt that the Lord Chancellor of England who nominates English Barristers for Silk is unable to recommend those practising in India for that rank. The only course then left for giving effect to the Statute was either to delete the clause referring to King's Counsel or to institute a Dominion Silk in India open to all Advocates, whether Barristers or Vakils. The deletion of the clause would not be in accordance with the intention of the Bar Councils Committee, not indeed with the principle recognized in the Bar Councils Act. The creation of a Dominion Silk in India appears to be the only course now possible. Still the Bill is limited to merely removing the anomaly pointed out before. It will, it is hoped, lead to a further step in the direction of developing an independent Indian Bar in accordance with the acknowledged policy of Government.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 27th January, 1931:—

L. A. BILL No. 23 OF 1931.

A Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Chapter XI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, relating to the powers of Magistrates to issue temporary orders in urgent cases of nuisance or apprehended danger, and to provide for appeals in respect of such orders; It is hereby enacted as follows:— V of 1898.

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 193 .

(2) It shall extend to the whole of British India, including the Santhal Parganas.

Amendment of section 144, Act V of 1898.

2. In section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898,— V of 1898.

(1) after sub-section (3), the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

"(3-A) Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, no order under this section shall be made by a Magistrate so as to restrict the right of any person or persons to convene, attend, or take part in any public or political meeting, association, procession, or other demonstration, unless the Magistrate finds on evidence duly recorded that such direction is necessary to prevent obstruction annoyance, or injury to any person lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a disturbance of the public tranquillity, or a riot, or an affray:

Provided that—

(a) no ex parte order shall be passed by a Magistrate in such cases without evidence duly recorded; and

(b) no such order, if made ex parte, shall remain in force for a longer period than forty-eight hours"; and

(2) after sub-section (6) the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

"(7) An appeal shall lie from an order passed under sub-section (6) to the Court of Session."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Recent events connected with the use of the provisions of section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, for the purpose of imposing restrictions of all kinds on political workers and propaganda, with the object of counteracting, or suppressing political agitation, or other legitimate activity, whenever and wherever the authorities deem fit to do so, have disclosed the need for a re-definition of the law of preventive action in emergencies which was originally embodied in the section solely for the benefit of the community, and only in urgent cases of nuisance or apprehended danger.

2. Section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure constitutes an entire chapter (XI) whose object is, in the words of the Code, to provide for "Temporary Orders in Urgent Cases of Nuisance or Apprehended Danger." The words of the section were, from the very nature of the entirely temporary action contemplated, made very general, and the discretion left to the Magistrates for the purpose was also correspondingly wide. But the extraordinary and indiscriminate applications of the section that have taken place in recent years on such a large scale for the purpose of suppressing political agitation, or other legitimate activity, are matters which could not have been foreseen, and constitute a misuse of the provisions of the section. In any case, the revision of the terms of the section so as to clearly define and restrict the powers of Magistrates, and to provide adequate safeguards for the protection of the rights of the public and of individuals, is clearly called for. The present Bill is intended to effect this purpose.

Clause 2 seeks to insert a sub-section (3-A) of section 144 providing that in cases where orders under the section are restrictive of the rights of free speech, association, or public meeting, the orders shall be based on evidence duly recorded, and that ex parte orders shall not have force for more than forty-eight hours from the passing thereof. The clause also provides that all orders made in respect of cases under sub-section (6) of the section shall be appealable to the Court of Session.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 4th March 1931.

Summary.—During the week light to moderate rain fell almost all over the Presidency. It has facilitated the cultivation of jute and other autumn crops. Harvesting of spring crops is almost over. Prospects of standing crops are reported to be generally satisfactory except for some damage caused by the recent rain in parts of some West Bengal districts. Distress continues in parts of Bogra and Pabna. In the former district, demand for agricultural loans is increasing and in the latter 539 persons attended the test relief works during the week ending on the 28th February. The average price of common rice for the province has slightly fallen as compared with that of the previous week.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 1343-Com.—9th March 1931.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 155 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878), and in supersession of the rules published under notification No. 5553Com., dated the 18th August 1926, the Governor in Council, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, is pleased to make the following rules for ascertaining and determining what spirit imported into Bengal shall be deemed to be denatured spirit and for causing imported spirit to be denatured. These rules shall come into force with effect from the date of the publication of this notification :—

Rules.

1. Denatured spirit is spirit rendered unfit for human consumption by the admixture of light caoutchoucine and crude pyridine bases, or with wood naphtha or other special denaturants, in the manner laid down in the follwing rules.

2. Whenever spirit is imported which is said to have been denatured, and on which the importer claims to pay duty at any special rate prescribed by the statutory schedule for such spirit, the Collector of Customs shall first ascertain the strength of the spirit. If the spirit is of less strength than 50 degrees overproof, the Collector shall reject the claim. If the strength is 50 degrees overproof or more the Collector shall send a sample of the spirit to the Customs Laboratory for examination and report by the Assistant Chemical Examiner.

3. If on receipt of the report referred to in rule 2 the Collector is satisfied that the spirit has been denatured by the admixture of ½ per cent. of "light caoutchoucine" and ½ per cent. of crude "pyridine bases" of the specifications prescribed in Schedules A and B hereto annexed, and that the importer has furnished a guarantee to his satisfaction that the crude pyridine bases used are wholly of mineral origin, he shall admit the spirit at the reduced rate of customs duty. In the case of import by sea from other Provinces a certificate from the Collector of Customs at the port of shipment to the effect that the spirit is not of less strength than 50° O.P. and that it has been fully denatured with the prescribed denaturants, may be accepted by the Collector in lieu of the Chemical Examiner's report.

NOTE.—The powers conferred on the Collector of Customs by this rule may be delegated by him to an Assistant Collector of Customs.

4. Spirit that has not been denatured in accordance with the prescribed methods shall be so denatured, otherwise duty at the full tariff rates shall be levied.

5. Imported spirit may be denatured in the Customs bonded warehouses under the supervision of an Assistant Collector of Customs by the admixture of light caoutchoucine and pyridine bases, provided that—

(1) the light caoutchoucine and pyridine bases to be mixed with the spirit are certified by the Assistant Chemical Examiner after due test to be of the specifications as in Schedules A and B, respectively, hereto annexed,

(2) they are kept under lock and key by and are used under the supervision of an Assistant Collector of Customs,

(3) they are used in the proportion of ½ a gallon of light caoutchoucine and ½ a gallon of pyridine bases to 99 gallons of spirit, and

(4) the spirit is not of less strength than 50 degrees overproof.

Similar conditions shall apply to the use of wood naphtha in such cases where its use is permitted, subject to the condition that one part by volume of crude wood naphtha of the specifications mentioned in Schedule C, hereto annexed, and of a strength of not less than 50° O.P. shall be mixed with nine parts of spirit.

NOTE.—With the previous permission of the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, special denaturants may be used for the denaturation of spirits intended for use in particular arts and manufactures.

6. Wood naphtha (impure methyl alcohol) shall be deemed to be denatured spirit, and shall be admitted as such, provided that—

(a) it is imported under a license granted under the Petroluem Rules, and

(b) it fulfils the specifications laid down in Schedule C to these rules.

7. A fee of Rs. 2 shall be charged for the examination and analysis for each sample of spirit or denaturing agent.

8. Any expense which may be incurred by the Collector of Customs in denaturing spirit or in ascertaining that it has been denatured as required by the rules shall be paid by the importer or applicant as the case may be on demand and before the spirit is removed from the customs bond.

Schedule A.

Specification for Light Caoutchoucine.

1. Nature.—By "caoutchoucine" is meant the liquid obtained by the dry distillation of vulcanized rubber. By "light caoutchoucine" is meant the liquid obtained by redistilling "caoutchoucine" and collecting that portion which passes over at or below 200° C.

2. The specific gravity of "light caoutchoucine".—The specific gravity of light caoutchoucine at 60° F. should lie between ·835 and ·860 referred to water as 1·000.

3. Boiling test.—For the purpose of this test, 100 c.c. of "light caoutchoucine" should be redistilled in the pyridine testing flask (see specification for pyridine bases). Under those conditions not more than 15 c.c. of distillate should pass over at or below 100° C., whilst a total (including the foregoing) of at least 70 c.c. should pass over at or below 200° C.

4. Absence of soluble constituents.—When 25 c.c. of "light caoutchoucine" are shaken with an equal volume of water in a stoppered graduated cylinder and due time is allowed for the liquids to separate again into two layers, the "light caoutchoucine" should show no appreciable diminution in volume.

5. Neutrality.—The aqueous layer obtained from test (4) should show no marked acidity or alkalinity when tested with both red and blue litmus paper.

6. Limit of saturated hydrocarbons.—At least 70 per cent. of the "light caoutchouchine" should be soluble in concentrated sulphuric acid. For testing this, 25 c.c. should be measured off into a tapped and stoppered separating cylinder of suitable capacity and sulphuric acid should be added, at first with great care and in very small quantities. After each addition of acid, the cylinder should be shaken and cooled to avoid loss of volatile constituents. Sufficient acid must be used (usually about 50 c.c.) for the highly coloured layer to become quite fluid so that it can separate readily from the upper layer of unattached constituents. After a final thorough shaking and cooling, the cylinder should be left for about three hours to effect complete separation of the two layers and the lower layer be then tapped off. The almost colourless upper layer should be again shaken with strong sulphuric acid until it appears free from soluble constituents (as judged by the colour imparted to the sulphuric acid) and separated as before after standing. It should finally measure not more than 7 c.cs. The acid used should be of specific gravity 1·84 and may be of commercial quality.

7. Freedom from water.—"Light caoutchoucine" should not contain any appreciable amount of water. Any officer engaged in drawing samples for test should certify on the bottle that he has drawn the sample from the bottom of the containing vessel where the water, if persent, will be found. For this purpose he should employ a syphon tube of which the shorter limb reaches to the floor of the containing vessel. He should also assure himself that the sample is collected in a bottle free of moisture.

Schedule B.

Specification for Crude Pyridine Base of Mineral Origin.

1. Nature.—"Pyridine" proper is a single definite compound (C_5 H. N) boiling at about 116° C. "Pyridine bases" are mixtures of pyridine with closely allied compounds boiling at various temperatures and must be of guaranteed mineral origin.

2. Colour.—The colour must not ordinarily be darker than that given by two cubic centimetres of deci-normal iodine solution dissolved in one litre of distilled water.

3. Miscibility.—The pyridine bases should mix readily and completely with spirit and should give a clear or only slightly opalescent solution when mixed with twice their volume of water.

4. Amount of water present.—From 20 c.c. of the pyridine bases mixed with 20 c.c. of caustic soda solution (density 1·4) at least 18·5 c. c. of the bases should separate, after having been repeatedly shaken together and allowed to stand.

5. Titration.—Dissolve 1 c.c. of the pyridine bases in 9·5 c.c. of distilled water. Titrate with normal sulphuric acid until a drop of the mixture gives a definite blue spot on Congo-red paper (the blue colour should at once disappear). At least 10 c.c. of the normal sulphuric acid should be required to produce this reaction. (To prepare the Congo-red paper dissolve one gram of Congo-red in one litre of distilled water. Soak filter paper in this and then dry).

6. Cadmium chloride reaction.—Vigorously shake together 10 c.c. of a solution of 1 c.c. of pyridine bases in 100 c.c. of distilled water with 5 c.c. of a 5 per cent. solution of dry fused cadmium chloride. A distinct crystalline precipitate should immediately result and there should be an abundant separation of crystals within ten minutes.

7. Nessler's reagent reaction.—Another 10 c.c. of the above 1 per cent. aqueous solution should give a white precipitate when mixed with 5 c.c. of Nessler's reagent.

8. Boiling point.—Distil 100 c. c. of pyridine bases in the manner prescribed below. At least 50 c.c. should distil over, at, or under, 140° C., and a total of 90 c.c. at or under 160° C.

Method.—100 c.c. of pyridine bases are placed in a short-necked copper flask of about 200 c.c. capacity. The flask is arranged on an asbestos card, which has a circular hole of 30 m.m. diameter cut in it. To the flask is attached a fractionating column (consisting of a tube 13 m.m. wide and 170 m.m. long, provided with one bulb), of which the side tube (issuing 1 c.m. above the bulb) joins a Liebig's condenser, of which the cooled part is at least 400 m.m. long. A standard thermometre is placed in the head of the column so that its bulb occupies the centre of the bulb of the column. The speed of distillation is adjusted to 5 c.c. per minute, the distillate being received in a graduated glass cylinder. At least 50 c.c. should distil over, at, or under, 140° C, and 90 c.c. at or under 160° C at a barometric pressure of 760 m.m.

If the barometer varies from 760 m. m. a correction of 1°C for each 30 m.m. of variation should be applied (e.g., under 770 m.m. of pressure 50 c.c. of distillate should come over, at, or under, 140·3° C., whilst under 750 m.m. the same amount of distillate should come over at 139·7° C).

Schedule C.

Specification for wood Naphtha (Impure Methyl Alcohol).

A. Not more than 30 cubic centimetres of the wood naphtha should be required to decolourise 0·5 grams of bromine.

B. It should be neutral or slightly alkaline to litmus; 25 c.cs. of wood naphtha should require at least 5 c.cs. of N/10 acid using methyl orange as indicator.

C. It must contain at least 72 per cent. by volume of methyl alcohol (methanol). In order to estimate the amount of methanol the fractional distillation test (Government Laboratory, London), will be taken as standard.

D. In 100 c.c. of wood naphtha there should not be less than 5 grams of substances present (calculated as acetone), as measured by Messinger's test.

E. There should be not less than 1·5 grams of esters present calculated as methyl acetate.

No. 1585Com.—13th March 1931.—Mr. L. B. Burrows, C.B.E., Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, is appointed, with effect from the 7th March 1931, to be the Chairman, Mining Board, Bengal, constituted under sub-section (1) of section 10 of the Indian Mines Act, 1923 (IV of 1923), vice Mr. S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, HEALTH AND LANDS.

NOTIFICATION.

New Delhi, the 5th March 1931.

No. 406-H. (G).—In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of section 213 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923 (XXI of 1923), the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following rules regarding signals of distress on pilgrim ships, the same having been previously published as required by sub-section (3) of the said section, namely:—

Rules.

1. (1) These rules may be called the Signals of Distress (Pilgrim Ships) Rules, 1931.

(2) They apply to pilgrim ships, and shall come into force on the 1st day of May 1931 from which date rule 18 of the rules published with the notification of the Government of India in the Home Department No. 1902 (Sanitary), dated the 14th October 1910, shall be cancelled.

Provided that these rules shall not apply, and rule 18 of the rules published with the said notification shall continue to apply, to pilgrim ships with regard to which a certificate of survey was granted before the 1st day of May 1931, under section 136 or section 144 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923, while such certificate is in force.

2. In these rules—

(1) "Approved" means approval by the Governor General in Council.

(2) "Surveyor" means a Surveyor appointed under section 129 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923.

3. Signals of distress.—Any of the following commonly recognised night signals of distress may be used either together or separately:—

(1) A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute.

(2) Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar or oil barrel).

(3) Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time at short intervals.

(4) A continuous sounding with any fog signal apparatus.

(5) The international distress signal made by radiotelegraphy or radiotelephony or by any other distance signalling method.

4. Means of making signals of distress to be provided.—All ships shall be provided with the means of making signals of distress at night specified in rules 5 to 7 or, in lieu thereof, with such other means of making signals of distress as have been previously approved.

5. (1) Gun.—One gun at least 3½ inches in the bore, or one mortar at least 5½ inches in the bore, shall be carried on all ships, with 24 charges of ammunition in the case of foreign-going ships, and 12 charges in the case of home-trade ships.

(2) Each charge shall contain 16 ozs. of powder in a flannel bag. The necessary requisites for firing the gun, namely, rammers, sponges, wads, priming wires, friction tubes, powder flask, with fine powder for priming and means for firing and withdrawing the charges, shall also be provided.

(3) Approved socket distress signals and sound signal rockets may be carried in lieu of a gun, provided that the number of signals so carried shall be equal to the number of charges of ammunition required under sub-rule (1).

6. Deck flares.—Two deck flares, self-igniting in water, shall be provided in every ship. Such deck flares shall be capable of burning brightly for at least 40 minutes. Full instructions for use shall be attached to each flare, and suitable receptacles for containing the water required for their combustion shall be provided, efficient means being adopted for ensuring free flow of water to the bottom of the light.

7. (1) Rockets and socket signals.—Twelve rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, shall be supplied, each rocket containing 16 ozs. of composition.

(2) Approved socket distress signals may be supplied in lieu of rockets, provided that the number of signals so supplied shall be equal to the number of rockets required under sub-rule (1). If socket signals are also carried in lieu of a gun and charges of ammunition, the number shall be equal to the total number of charges of ammunition and of rockets required under sub-rule (1) of rule 5 and sub-rule (1) of this rule. Socket signals shall be fired only from the sockets supplied by the makers of the signals.

(3) The socket used for firing the socket signals shall in all cases be fixed at an angle which shall approximate as closely as possible to, but shall not be less than, 20 degrees from the perpendicular, so as to obviate the risk of a signal falling on the vessel's deck if it fails to rise to the usual height. The sockets shall be of sufficient strength, and of such a gauge as to ensure that the signal will rise to a safe height before exploding.

(4) In all cases where socket signals are carried there shall be at least two sockets, one forward and one aft, on opposite sides of the vessel.

8. Testing and renewal of signals.—All pyrotechnic signals shall be clearly and permanently marked or stamped with the date of manufacture. Adhesive labels or painted figures alone shall not be accepted in lieu of such marking or stamping. Where sheet brass labels are used in contact with tin cases, the brass plates shall be properly soldered on and there shall be no corrosion of the canister.

9. (1) Stowage of signals and combustibles.—A separate, detached, and completely enclosed receptacle shall be provided for each of the following kinds of explosives:—

(1) gun powder or cartridges made therewith;

(2) rockets;

(3) socket signals;

(4) deck flares and lifebuoy lights;

(5) any other description of pyrotechnic signals.

(2) Such separate receptacles shall not be made merely by divisions or partitions in a cupboard or locker or chest, but each such receptacle shall be a separate magazine, exclusively appropriated to the keeping of explosives of the kind in question. Charges of powder, if carried, shall be contained in flannel bags, and the magazine in which they are kept shall be made of copper and strongly constructed. To prevent injury to the rockets and other signals, the receptacles shall either be internally divided in such a way that the signals can be stowed vertically, or they shall be of roughly the same length as the signals, but sufficiently narrow to prevent the signals being turned round. The lids shall be secured by hinges or brass screws so as to permit of an inspection being made without injury to the case. The receptacles shall, where possible, be kept in a house on deck, and stowed or ranged as far apart as circumstances will permit, so that in the event of spontaneous combustion, or of risk of any sort arising any of the cases may be at once removed. Where the socket signals are supplied by the manufacturer in wooden boxes with a tin box inside containing the friction tubes, no other receptacle shall be required for the latter.

(3) No article of an explosive or highly inflammable character shall be carried in any room or place in which any receptacle containing distress signals is deposited.

10. In the case of a small vessel under 200 feet in length when it is shown to be unreasonable to require full compliance with any of the provisions of these rules, such relaxation shall be granted as the Governor General in Council may, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, direct.

Penalty.

11. Whoever does any act in contravention of any of the provisions of these rules shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Bills introduced in the Council of State and Legislative Assembly, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council and Assembly and Bills published under Rule 18 of the Indian Legislative Rules.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Legislative Assembly Department.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 27th January, 1931:—

L. A. BILL No. 21 OF 1931.

A Bill to abolish the punishment of death for offences under the Indian Penal Code.

WHEREAS it is expedient to abolish the punishment of death in British India, which may be inflicted in pursuance of sentences passed under the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:— XLV of 1860.

Short title, extent, application and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Abolition of Capital Punishment Act, 19 .

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) The provisions of this Act shall apply to all persons to whom the provisions of the Indian Penal Code apply. XLV of 1860.

(4) It shall come into force on the 1st January, 193

Abolition of capital punishment.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Penal Code whereby Courts are empowered to pass a sentence of death by way of punishment, no Court in British India shall pass such sentence of death for any offence committed in or outside British India, by any person to whom the provisions of this Act apply. XLV of 1860.

Exception.—The provisions of this Act shall not affect the provisions of section 132 of the Indian Penal Code or, of the Indian Army Act, 1911, or any other law or Statute passed either by the Indian Legislature or the British Parliament, under which death penalty can be inflicted, and which affects the discipline or maintenance of His Majesty's military, naval or air forces in India. XLV of 1860. VIII of 1911.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Capital punishment has been wholly or partly abolished in many of the progressive countries of the world. Australia, Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Italy, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and a few States in America, have already done away with death penalty. Public opinion in England, and in many other countries is also coming round to the view that capital punishment is a relic of barbarism, and is not suited to the social needs of the present time. The plea that capital punishment acts as a deterrent, and exercises a restraining influence, is not borne out by the experience of modern States.

The arguments in support of the abolition of the death penalty are shortly as follows:—

It demoralises those who inflict it; its harshness has the effect of coarsening the public sentiment. To authorise killing is to tamper with the sanctity of human life; sometimes innocent persons have been sentenced to death, and in such cases no reparation is possible. Science has now proved that murders are often committed under the influence of a frenzy, which is of the nature of a disease, and has to be treated like many other diseases by proper therapeutic means. To end the life of such criminal may seem to be a short cut; but it has the effect of depriving the culprit of all opportunity of improvement under proper remedial conditions. In times when the dignity of human life was not adequately realised, public conscience tolerated this drastic remedy. But with the growth of a larger perception of the economy of human life, and the need of making the best use of the same, it is necessary that means should be adopted to remove this method of punishment. The principle that punishment for offences should be primarily regarded as a means of correction and reformation of criminals and criminally inclined persons, as also as a means of educating the social conscience of the community against crimes of violence or cruelty makes it imperative under modern conditions that the death penalty for offences should be abolished. The provisions of the Bill are accordingly intended to give effect to the above objects.

The Bill is not intended to affect any Statute of the British Parliament applicable to India; nor does it in any way affect discipline in His Majesty's army, navy, or air force.

Resolution on the Annual Progress Report on Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending the 31st March 1930.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

Revenue Department.

Forests.

CALCUTTA, THE 16TH MARCH 1931.

RESOLUTION—No. 4064For.

Read—

The Annual Progress Report on Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending the 31st March 1930.

Read also—

The reports of the previous three years and the Government resolutions thereon.

Mr. E. O. Shebbeare was in charge of the Northern Circle till the 17th March 1930, except for about a month during which period Mr. Jeston Homfray, Conservator of Forests, Southern Circle, held double charge. Mr. A. K. Glasson held charge from the 18th March 1930 to the end of the year. Mr. Jeston Homfray was in charge of the Southern Circle throughout the year.

2. The foreword to the report indicates the important problems which are under the consideration of the department. The proposal to separate the Forest budget from the Provincial budget which has already been considered by Government is not practicable at present. The intention of Government in the comments made on this subject in the resolution on the report for 1928-29 was not to deny the desirability of increasing forest revenue by financing schemes which will be immediately remunerative, but to point out that Bengal is not in a position at present to invest in forest development schemes which will not yield high returns in the near future, though ultimately they might be very profitable. An endeavour will be made to finance the scheme for the mechanical extraction of timber from the Kasalong reserve forest in the Chittagong Hill Tracts Forest Division in 1931-32, but owing to the slump in the timber market it is not considered advisable to start any new saw mills at present. This proposal will, however, be further examined and if conditions improve and the prospects of success from the financial point of view appear more certain, Government will consider the question of taking a loan in 1932-33 for the purpose.

The important scheme of formation of ranges in the Sundarbans Forest Division has been receiving the careful consideration of Government and the scheme has been sanctioned, but owing to the present financial stringency, only about Rs. 26,000 out of the total grant sanctioned for this scheme will be spent this year and Rs. 1,12,757 has been budgetted for 1931-32 for this scheme, in addition to Rs. 17,000 which is required for the purchase of a new motor launch, in replacement of the existing motor launch, without which proper supervision and inspection is not possible.

The proposal to prohibit shooting game from motor cars, and a proposal to prohibit shooting of bison in Chittagong are under consideration. From enquiries recently made it appears that indiscriminate slaughter of game is not general throughout the province but Government are aware of the difficulty outside the forest areas of preventing it where it is practised and of enforcing the close seasons prescribed under the Wild Birds and Animals Protection Act in the absence of effective support from public opinion.

3. Area.—The area of reserved forest increased by 3 square miles from 6,462 to 6,465 square miles. The increase was in the Chittagong Division. The area of protected forest also increased by 45 square miles from 628 to 673, chiefly owing to the addition of newly formed accretions in the Sundarbans Forest Division. There was no change in the area of unclassed forest. The total area of forests under the control of the department thus increased from 10,535 to 10,583 or by 48 square miles.

Notifications under section 4 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927, in respect of about 100 square miles of khas mahal forests in Chittagong and Cox's Bazar Divisions were issued during the year and 82 miles of the boundaries of compact blocks in Chittagong and 101 miles in Cox's Bazar were demarcated.

4. Working plans.—The working plan of the Jalpaiguri Division was under printing during the year. The Darjeeling and Buxa working plans were completed and sent for printing after the close of the year. The new plans (under preparation) were followed in Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri Divisions. The prescriptions of the old plans were followed in Buxa Division. A revised working plan of the Sundarbans Forest Division is almost complete.

5. Utilisation.—Departmental operations were carried out chiefly in Kurseong, Jalpaiguri and Buxa Divisions. These Divisions continued to supply sleepers to the Sleeper Control Officer, Eastern Group and the Bengal Duars Railway.

The saw mill at Siliguri which was started in 1926 worked at a profit of Rs. 15,438, but the gross revenue collected on sales of sawn timber from the mill was Rs. 1,10,759 against Rs. 1,25,943 last year. The decrease in revenue was mainly due to the market being very dull throughout the year but there was a fair increase in the sale of sal (shorea robusta) scantlings. This promises well for the future prospects of the mill. The improvements effected in the mill will, it is hoped, result in larger profits, by reducing the cost of production.

6. Khedda.—Departmental khedda operations conducted in the Cox's Bazar Division resulted in the capture of 44 elephants, but there were a number of casualties mainly among small elephants, and 29 elephants were brought to the place of auction in the Chittagong Division. At the close of the year, only 7 elephants had been sold; 22 remained on hand unsold. The expenditure incurred up to the end of the year, including the cost of establishment and the upkeep of departmental elephants, was Rs. 23,582 and the revenue collected was Rs. 3,275 against Rs. 1,123 of the previous year.

7. Outturn, revenue and expenditure.—As in the previous year there was a decrease in the outturn of different kinds of forest produce except bamboos. The revenue, expenditure and the surplus decreased during the year, compared with the previous year, as shown below:—

Year.	Revenue.	Expenditure.	Surplus.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1928-29	31,18,357	16,82,008	14,36,349
1929-30	30,52,078	16,64,606	13,87,472

The decrease in revenue occurred mainly in the Jalpaiguri and Buxa Divisions on account of restricted sale of coupes due to a dull timber market and reduction of the output of sal under the new working plans.

Government have spent about 15 per cent. of the annual surplus on capital expenditure on the average during the last three years and ordinary expenditure rose from Rs. 14 lakhs in 1924-25 to Rs. 17 lakhs in 1927-28, though it has now fallen to Rs. 16 lakhs owing to financial stringency.

The total expenditure on the construction and repairs of roads and bridges amounted to Rs. 61,874 against Rs. 58,000 in the previous year. No new works of any magnitude were constructed during the year. Although the average cost of repairs and upkeep of roads per mile was small, the roads were kept in good condition. The total expenditure on the construction of new buildings and on repairs to existing ones, was Rs. 66,184 and Rs. 43,442 as compared with Rs. 61,765 and Rs. 48,347, respectively, of the previous year.

8. The total value of sales of forest produce was Rs. 21,40,228 against Rs. 23,86,189 of the previous year, a decrease of more than Rs. 2,45,000. The value of forest produce, granted free of charge, was Rs. 56,000 and exceeded that of the previous year by Rs. 5,000.

The free grantees are the Public Works Department, District Board, Government Cinchona Department, forest villagers, taungya cultivators and timber cutters. Orders have been passed after the close of the year clearly laying down the purposes for which the Conservators and the Divisional Forest Officers will be entitled to grant forest produce free of royalty or at reduced rates.

9. The demand for lizard skins still continued. Permits to collect the skins of the large water lizard (varanus salvator) were issued and they brought in a revenue of about Rs. 10,000 in the Sundarbans Forest Division.

10. The outstanding revenue at the end of the year was Rs. 3,29,445 against Rs. 4,99,297 at the beginning. Although Rs. 1,70,000 of the outstanding was realised during the year, the balance due was still large and Jalpaiguri and Buxa were the defaulting Divisions. Every attempt should be made to reduce the outstanding at the end of the year to the minimum possible.

In the forest area eight persons including a Deputy Ranger were killed by tigers and rogue elephants and three men were mauled by bears. Three men were killed by crocodiles. A sum of Rs. 690 was paid in rewards for killing six tigers and capturing two cubs.

The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to Messrs. Shebbeare and Homfray for their successful administration of the Forest circles and also to Mr. Glasson who officiated as the Conservator of Forests, Northern Circle, during the year. His Excellency in Council also notices with pleasure the record of good work done by other officers of the department mentioned in the report.

Order—Ordered that the above resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Ordered also that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the two Conservators of Forests, Northern and Southern Circles, Bengal.

The financial position of the Board though a minus figure is not bad in as much as the swelling expenditure is due to the inclusion of the expenditure out of the unspent balance of previous year, as will be evident from the fact that the opening balance at the opening of the year 1927-28 was Rs. 73,804 while the closing balance at the end of the year 1929-30 was Rs. 52,140. Moreover, it is proposed to repay the loan by levy of a toll under section 86A of the Local Self-Government Act.

(a) If the ordinary surplus is insufficient to meet the charges of the proposed loan, the particular steps which the District Board has taken, or has agreed to take, in order to make good the deficiency.	The Board has resolved to levy tolls on the bridge to repay the loan prayed for.
(b) The reserve of taxation or other possible means of increase in the revenues of the District Board.	Ditto.
(c) A statement of all outstanding loans specifying, in respect of each loan, the date when taken, the purpose (very briefly), the amount, the annual charges involved, and the amount still payable.	Nil.
(d) Any explanations in regard to receipts and expenditure to show the true financial position of the District Board when such position is otherwise than the ordinary surplus would indicate.	Vide explanations at foot of the statement.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Dacca, the 18th March 1931.

Monthly Weather and Crop Report of Bengal for February 1931.

I. Character of the season.—During the month under review, the rainfall was general throughout the Presidency. The fall was above the normal in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions and in Rajshahi, Bogra, Pabna, Dacca, Faridpur and Tippera while elsewhere it was below the average. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—The rainfall during the month facilitated the preparatory tillage for jute and other autumn crops. Harvesting of the early varieties of spring crops was over and that of the late varieties still continued.

III. State of standing crops.—The condition of standing crops was reported to be generally fair.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The outturns of wheat and spring oilseed crops are expected to be satisfactory this year. The prospects of vegetables and other standing crops are reported to be promising.

V. Damage to standing crops.—No damage to standing crops was reported during the month from any part of the Province.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of live-stock was generally fair. Stray cases of cattle-disease, however, were reported from five districts of the Presidency.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—The supply of fodder was reported as sufficient throughout the Province.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month, the retail prices of common rice of the cheapest quality fell in twelve districts, rose in six and remained stationary in the rest of the presidency. The prices ranged from 9½ seers per rupee at Faridpur to 16 seers per rupee at Midnapore.

IX. Condition of agricultural population.—The condition of agricultural population is not satisfactory owing to fall in the prices of jute and other staples. Distress continues to prevail in parts of Bogra and Pabna. In the former district demand for agricultural loans is increasing and in the latter test relief works continued.
